PAVING SCANDAL AT WASHINGTON UP TO CONGRESS

Dictograph Expose Stirs City.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 30.—[Special.]—Washington's antiquated city government was in turmoil tonight over accusations that public officials were involved in a paving scandal that may reach huge proportions. The row developed over disclosures of evidence gathered through dictographs installed in the house office buildings and Washington hotels.

Jennings Randolph.

Representative Jennings Randolph [D., W. Va.], chairman of the house District of Columbia committee and the nearest the city has to a mayor, has announced that he will resign the post soon. Two other committee members, Joe B. Bates [D., Ky.] and William D. Byron [D., Md.], also are planning to quit.

After making it clear that he had no share in any irregularities that may have come up, Randolph said:

"The job is a combination of a headache, a heartache, and a bodyache which I no longer propose to bear."

Trail Found in Milk Inquiry.

The dictographs were set up by district policemen acting as aids to a subcommittee of the house's district committee. It had been appointed to investigate charges of a milk monopoly in the district. It was reported that some of the voice recording machines took down conversations at gay hotel parties in which both men and women participated.

One of the most serious accusations is that lobbyists for a paving company tried to have specifications of the district so drawn that only its asphalt products would meet them. One report is that an unidentified man had talked of $20,000 to be paid to public officials for the necessary changes.

It's News to Randolph.

Randolph said he knew nothing about the $20,000 report. He directed Col. David McCoach, the paving commissioner, to make public all the correspondence he and McCoach had had in regard to paving specifications. He admitted that he had introduced two men, representatives of an eastern asphalt company, to McCoach because the two were "constituents."

One of the letters given out by the commissioner showed Randolph writing: "I trust something favorable can be worked out for this [asphalt] company."

McCoach said that he had placed the eastern company, whose product comes from Trinidad, only "on the same basis" with companies exploiting domestic paving materials.

"Constituents'" Trail Followed.

It was disclosed that the "constituents" were introduced to the capital's unofficial mayor by D. Grove Moler, a West Virginia state senator, who represents the eastern concern. Moler was formerly Randolph's secretary.

He is a law partner of Whiting Faulkner, postmaster at Martinsburg, W. Va., who was called last week before the milk subcommittee of the district committee. He admitted that Miss Julia Castleman, secretary of the milk committee, had supplied him with advance information on the committee's doings. Miss Castleman has since resigned. Faulkner was also quizzed on reports that he had offered to protect local milk producers against outside competition for a $1,000 fee.

Dictograph Under Fire.

The dictograph's use has brought complaints from members of congress who insist that congressional privacy is being interfered with. Kenneth Romney, sergeant-at-arms for the house, is investigating this.

Another development has been a demand that Washington's old status as a congressional appendage be changed and modern government installed.

It is expected that when Randolph resigns Representative William T. Schulte [D., Ind.] will be in line for his post.

Floyd Roberts of Van Nuys, Cal., winner of the 1938 race, died in a hospital an hour after a three car smashup in which two other drivers and two spectators were injured.

The Cubs scored a double shut-out over the Reds in Cincinnati yesterday, 6 to 0 and 2 to 0.

Ted Lyons pitched the White Sox to a 6 to 2 victory over the Tigers in the first game of a double-header in Comiskey park yesterday. The Sox lost the second game, 8 to 3.

YOUNG VICTIM'S 4 COMPANIONS TELL OF KILLING

Investigation disclosed last night that Athon Papas, who shot and killed Muriel Campbell early yesterday after she had picked up a watermelon in a prank at a vegetable market, previously shot two other persons in disputes over melons. Papas, a clerk in the market, admitted this last night in his cell in the Shakespeare avenue police station.

He also admitted that his special policeman's permit, by virtue of which he carried a revolver, was not valid in the market at 5624 North avenue, where he shot the girl.

Miss Campbell, who was 18 years old, was shot behind the left ear as she fled from the market. She died in the Loretto hospital.

Companions Tell of Slaying.

Miss Campbell took them for a ride in her car Monday night after taking her brother, Robert, 16 years old, home to 1228 Maple avenue, Berwyn. With her were Helen Freilich, 16, of 5522 Jackson boulevard, the daughter of Dr. Harry H. Freilich of the Rush Medical college faculty; Harry Feigenbaum, 18, of 5547 Congress street; David Brown, 18, of 153 North Parkside avenue, and Bernard Goldstein, 20, of 4814 Quincy street. Miss Campbell is a graduate of the Austin High school and all the others except Goldstein are members of the senior class.

They stopped at the market shortly after midnight to buy some fruit. Miss Freilich picked up a watermelon outside and tossed it to Miss Campbell. The two girls tossed it back and forth several times and then one of them dropped it, smashing the melon.

Offers to Pay for Melon.

Christ Nefaros of 1757 West 71st street, a clerk, called Miss Freilich inside. Police said he accused her of trying to steal the melon. Feigenbaum walked in, offered to pay for the melon, and asked Miss Freilich to leave. She left and Miss Campbell came in.

Nefaros then called Papas, who acted in the dual capacity of uniformed special policeman and aproned clerk in the market. Papas and Feigenbaum quarreled. Police said Papas drew his gun and fired into the floor at the boy's feet. The boy picked up some potatoes and threw them at Papas. The boy and Miss Campbell then ran from the market. Papas followed, firing. About 150 feet away Miss Campbell fell.

Clerk Is Locked Up.

Papas, who is 55 years old and the father of seven children, was locked up for an appearance at the inquest at 9:30 a. m. today in the undertaking rooms at 3021 Fullerton avenue. He said his credentials as a special policeman were at his home, 4844 Washington boulevard.

His permit, however, proved to be for special police duty in the Assumption church, Harrison street and Central avenue, and Papas admitted he had no other permit.

Miss Campbell's father, William J. Campbell, demanded the law's punishment for Papas.

"They were all just kids," he said. "This thing could have been straightened out easily."

Son-in-Law Pledges Aid.

While Campbell and his wife were discussing the shooting a young man who identified himself as Papas' son-in-law called at Campbell's home. He pledged his assistance in prosecuting Papas. The young man declined to give his name.

Papas admitted that in 1934 he shot and wounded Edward Hilner while working as a special policeman in a market near Addison street and Central avenue. He said he thought Hilner was trying to steal a watermelon. Charges against Papas were dismissed in this shooting.

Last October Papas quarreled with Herbert Winkelhake over the price of a canteloup in a food store at 3235 Irving Park road and shot and wounded Winkelhake. Papas said he was placed on probation for that shooting.

Italians Resent Bullitt's Use of Word 'Enemy'

ROME, May 30.—Italian newspapers today again attacked French Premier Edouard Daladier's speech at memorial services for American soldier dead at Neuilly Sunday, and this time William C. Bullitt, American ambassador to France, came in for his share of castigation.

William C. Bullitt.

"There is little to say about Bullitt," Il Popolo d'Italia said. "He has purely and simply spoken like an emphatic demagog in embracing the cause of encirclers, even to the point of going much further than the phraseology used by [President] Roosevelt and Daladier. In fact, he spoke of the necessity of union against 'the enemy.' The enemy? Are we then already at war?"

The newspaper Tevere was equally contemptuous. It said: "The American demonstrations are in any case purely verbal. To the excesses of the President are now added those of his secretary of state [Cordell Hull] and his ambassadors."

Here's What Bullitt Said.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 30.—William C. Bullitt, the American ambassador, used the word "enemy" in his speech at Neuilly Sunday, but French leaders declared tonight they thought the Italians were assuming a great deal in classing themselves as the enemy to whom he referred.

The French carefully studied the text of Bullitt's speech and believed the following are the paragraphs which excited the wrath of the Italian press:

"Nations, like men, must often choose between dreadful alternatives, and the American soldiers who lie here helped to keep the torch of liberty alight in the world.

Tells of Facing Enemy.

"Today the nations that have been most reluctant in their history to accept the burdens of daily drill and the obligations to assist friendly peoples in case they are attacked have accepted the drill and pledged themselves to aid remote people. It is because they know that if the great nations wash their hands while lesser powers are destroyed the day will come when they themselves will face the enemy without friends.

"Let us not forget that there are times when men must take arms to save all that is worthy in human life, and that if arms break the peace they also defend it."

ARMY OF 15,000 MOORS FLOWN IN BY BOMBERS

Tactics Which Won the War Described.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 30.—Close to 8,000 German survivors of the Spanish civil war reached German waters in five steamers of the Strength Through Joy fleet today. They will be welcomed as heroes by their countrymen in imposing ceremonies in Hamburg tomorrow.

While a big part of the Nazi fleet steamed out to welcome the homecoming troops, the country for the first time heard of the exploits of the German Condor legion in Spain.

To many this was surprising, because for the last three years death as traitors was threatened for those who whispered details about the departure of German troops for Spain.

Number of Dead Never Told.

The number of German dead and wounded in the Spanish war never has been revealed. Bereaved relatives were forbidden to announce the death of Germans killed in Spain.

But all that was forgotten as readers of the newspapers were regaled with dramatic stories of the exploits of German officers, aviators, anti-aircraft gunners, artillery men, and the training staff which played a preponderant rôle in helping Gen. Francisco Franco win the war.

In recent years scorching denials were issued to inquiries about the presence of officers of the regular German forces in Spain, such as Gen. Hugo Sperrle, Gen. Hellmuth Volkmann, Gen. Wolfram von Richthofen, and Col. Warlimont of the general staff. Today these same officers were glorified in the German press as the men who made Franco's victory possible.

Train 56,000 Spaniards.

The Nazis revealed that 56,000 Spanish officers, noncommissioned officers and cadets were trained by German officers.

They disclosed that at the end of July, 1936, a fortnight after the civil war started, the first group of eighty-five German pilots, disguised as members of a conducted tour, was on its way to Cadiz. Simultaneously twenty Junkers bombers were flown to Spain by German airmen and Heinkel fighters were shipped to Spain by sea.

In a few weeks 15,000 Moroccan troops, machine guns, trench mortars and artillery were flown by the Junkers bombers from Africa to Spain. As many as 42 Moroccans were packed at a time into the Junkers planes, which ordinarily accommodate only seventeen persons. The German pilots related that the danger of flying these planes packed to capacity was heightened by the insistence of the Moroccans upon smoking while in the air.

Ocean Flyer Transports Troops.

Among the pilots transporting the Moroccan troops was Capt. Baron Rudolf von Moreau, who later participated in a nonstop flight from Berlin to New York and back in August, 1938.

Der Angriff, organ of the German labor front, was most enthusiastic about Germany's part in flying the Moroccans to Spain. Observers recalled that for years the Germans denounced the Moroccans as enemies of civilization. This was after they had served with the French army of occupation in the Rhineland.

After the German military authorities had concluded that the war would not be won by Franco without more reënforcements, today's accounts disclosed, a corps of 6,500 Germans was dispatched to Spain early in November, 1936.

Many Planes Included.

This corps included ten squadrons of bombers, pursuit ships and scouting planes as well as five batteries of eight millimeter anti-aircraft guns, two batteries of light anti-aircraft guns, four companies of tanks, a signal corps and other technical units.

The corps later was reënforced, but no reliable figures exist, since the Germans continually changed their forces in Spain so as to give war experience to the maximum number of German soldiers. The same principle was applied to the commanders of the German forces, which at the beginning of the war were under the command of Col. Warlimont.

Later Gen. Sperrle, the present

HOPE FADES FOR SEA FLYER, LONG OVERDUE IN FLIVVER AIRPLANE

LONDON, May 30.—(AP)—Hope for Thomas H. Smith and his Baby Clipper faded tonight to the outside chance that he had landed in some remote part of the British Isles or was afloat at sea after his attempt to span the Atlantic in a flivver type plane.

Mrs. Harvey Smith, mother of lost flyer, listening to radio.

Smith left Old Orchard Beach, Me., Sunday in a type of monoplane seldom used for flights of more than 250 miles. His plane carried a fuel supply to last him 36 to 42 hours of flying.

Rumors which flooded northern Ireland and England yesterday, reporting a tiny strange plane, died out as hope for Smith dwindled. Nevertheless, the air ministry and police and coast guard officials remained puzzled over the identity of the small plane which flew low over St. Bees Head, Cumberland, northwest England, yesterday evening at about the time Smith was expected.

Policeman Catches Mouse Prowling Around His Auto

Policeman Joseph Plum of the Oak Park force is now a little better than even with a white mouse which had been infesting the upholstery of his automobile since Saturday. He set six well baited traps in the car and the animal was caught in one of them. The mouse had escaped from Plum last week while he was taking it and several companion rodents home as playthings for the Plum children.

Pigeon Fancier Flies Off with 77 Prize Birds

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

Joseph Schwartz has spent many an hour waiting confidently for his racing pigeons to swoop down to their loft at 1426 South Drake avenue. Last night he was waiting again, but not confidently.

Schwartz, a machinery contractor, went to look at his flock yesterday and discovered that seventy-seven pigeons had been stolen. All that remained were four baby birds, dead from cold, and sixteen more that will have to be killed if their mothers don't return soon to feed them.

The missing birds are worth $1,500, Schwartz said, but that doesn't bother him as much as the thought of what the thief may do with them. If they're entered in a race they'll streak for home. And they can't be exhibited in a show because they're not pouters, fantails, tumblers, rollers, or any of the fancy breeds. That leaves the dark possibility that they'll wind up on a dinner table.

One Valued at $750.

Schwartz said the birds include some of the finest in the city. One, a blue hen 2 years old, he values at $750. She was fifth last year in an eighty mile race from Ashton, Ill., against 7,000 others.

She has no name, but her number is AU 37 CHICAGO 66388. Like the rest of the stolen birds, she's under the protection of the United States army, which could call on any of Schwartz's racing homers to do their bit in case of war.

Schwartz has been racing pigeons for five years. He says there's no thrill like watching your birds come home. The older ones, he said, are in a hurry because they have young ones to feed or eggs to hatch. Young ones speed home to be fed or because they have no other place to go.

Some Go on Relief.

Some pigeons turn out to be just plain worthless. You can see a lot of former racing homers hanging around Grant park, says Schwartz, making a living by mooching. They'll never be any good, he says, because "you can't make a good citizen out of a bum."

And if whoever stole Schwartz's birds thinks he can take them out of the state and train them for himself, he's mistaken.

Some of them have come home from Rawlings, Wyo., a distance of about 1,000 miles. They did it in 54 hours. And none of them, Schwartz says proudly, was a bum.

KEEP LAMPS LIGHTED IN ALASKA; VOLCANO SMOKE DARKENS SKY

PERRYVILLE, Alaska, May 30.—(AP)—Inhabitants of this Alaska peninsula settlement had to keep their lamps lighted again today as ashes and thick, sulphurous smoke from erupting Mount Veni Aminof, fifteen miles away, darkened the sky.

There has been no panic but residents have kept themselves in readiness to flee since May 23, when the volcano became active after a slight earthquake. The smoke, steam and hot ashes are forced skywards thousands of feet, and at night, fire can be seen plainly from here. There is an almost continuous rumbling.

Caribou herds are bunching and fleeing the smoke and blinding ashes.

STRIVE TO RESCUE 2 PICNICKERS WHO FELL FROM CLIFF

Albany, N. Y., May 30.—(AP)—Two young persons were injured tonight in a fall from a cliff on Helderberg mountain and state police attempted to release them from the forest prison at its base.

Corporal Fred Merkle said John Cannon, 27 years old, and Lillian Hardy, 25, both of Albany, fell from the cliff while attending a picnic supper at Thacher park, west of this city.

After climbing down a narrow trail to the two, Merkle directed state police in attempts to rig a lift to carry them to safety. He said their condition was such that he could not carry them up the trail on which he descended.

Robins' Nest Under Hood Survives 400 Mile Trip

Springfield, Ill., May 30.—(AP)—Three robin's eggs in a nest under the front fender of a heavy truck were intact today after the truck completed a trip of more than 400 miles from Springfield, O. The nest was discovered when the truck, after delivering a load of merchandise from a factory in the Ohio city, went into a garage here for a mechanical checkup.

Peonies Planted Before '65 Decorate Veterans' Graves

McGregor, Ia., May 30.—[Special.]—Among flowers decorating graves of soldier dead here today was a bouquet of double pink peonies gathered from a plant which by authentic record has bloomed annually in a McGregor yard since before the civil war. It dates back to 1858.

LEGION PARADERS HALT DISPLAY OF ANTI-WAR LEAGUE

New York, May 30.—(AP)—Members of the American Legion broke up an anti-war demonstration along a Memorial day parade in the Bronx today while on Riverside drive protests were shouted at two score Italian veterans of the world war who gave Fascist salutes.

Six of the Bronx demonstrators, who identified themselves with the Young People's Socialist league, required treatment for bruises and cuts. Willi Mirin, secretary of the league, charged that police stood by idly when two dozen Legionnaires broke ranks to batter the demonstrators.

In the largest parade of the day, with more than 25,000 marchers viewed by a half million persons lining Riverside drive, the Italian group lifted right arms in the Fascist gesture as they passed the reviewing stand. Onlookers yelled protests and the salute was not returned.

commander of the third German air fleet, took over the command. In an article written by himself Gen. Sperrle related that it was on his advice that Franco attacked Bilbao, Santander, and later the Asturias. This counsel led to the collapse of the entire northern front, thus making strong forces free for the decisive battles in Tarragona and Catalonia.

Richthofen Wins Barcelona.

After a year Gen. Sperrle was relieved by Gen. Volkmann, and again a year later Gen. von Richthofen took his place.

The latter, who in the world war was a member of the Richthofen circus, is 43 years old. He is believed to have been responsible for the capture of Barcelona. By evolving new assault tactics by which the enemy never was allowed to get set again after being dislodged from one position, the Franco forces were able to pierce in a fortnight the triple ring of fortifications laid out by French experts.

According to the German reports the Condor legion participated decisively in all outstanding battles of the Spanish war. Gen. Sperrle related that the German anti-aircraft artillery not only played a decisive part in picking off the loyalists' bombers, but was also successfully employed against ground targets.

Used Against Fleeing Troops.

Light anti-aircraft guns of 20 millimeter bore and firing explosive shells proved highly efficient when trained on the loopholes of pillboxes, it was declared.

Anti-aircraft guns also were extensively used to dislodge the Basques from mountainous positions which otherwise might have proved impregnable. In six weeks of the Basque campaign German airplanes dropped 2,500 tons of explosives, while low flying raiders fired 1,130,000 rounds of machine gun bullets.

During the same period German 88 millimeter anti-aircraft guns fired 22,500 rounds and the 20 millimeter guns 31,500 rounds.

Tells of New Tactics.

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's periodical Adler, in a special Spanish issue, told of new tactics the German fighters evolved when attacking anti-aircraft guns. While bombers dropped their loads on the enemy's position from a great height, the attacking fighters, firing their machine guns, dived in single file on the battery. When nearing the ground the fighters pulled up the noses of their planes and while ascending released bombs.

Two hundred and fifty kilogram bombs were found most effective when bombing infantry.

Maj. Hanrick, the winner of the pentathlon in the Olympic games of 1936, was among the Germans fighting in Spain.

(Copyright; 1939; By the New York Times.)

ROME, May 30.—A complete account of the part Italy played in the Spanish civil war is given in an article by Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano which appeared today in the Milan magazine Gerarchia.

Ciano wrote that during the war the legionary [Italian] air force flew a total of 135,265 hours participating in 5,318 bombings. It engaged in 266 combats downing 943 enemy planes and losing 88. The number of Italian pilots killed fighting, Ciano said, was 85, and total casualties were 3,327 dead and 11,227 wounded.

Italy's intervention in Spain, he disclosed, began soon after July 25, 1936, when on Generalissimo Francisco Franco's request the Italian government sent nine planes to Spanish Morocco. Exalting the Italians' bravery, Ciano emphasized that the Fascist troops, although consisting of volunteers, followed the strategic "methods and concepts of the Italian army." He said the legionnaires were always at the side of Spanish troops throughout the war and furnished a "new text for Italian war doctrine."

Jewish Refugee Slashes Wrists, Jumps from Ship

HAVANA, May 30.—Max Loewe, a Jewish refugee about 48 years old, who was a passenger aboard the Hamburg American liner St. Louis, on which more than 900 Jews are being held in the harbor here pending a government decision on their entry, slashed his wrists and jumped into the bay this afternoon. He was picked up by a launch and was taken to Calixto Garcia hospital. He is a lawyer from Hamburg. He has a wife, Elise, and two children, Ruth, 17, and Fritz, 12, who are aboard the St. Louis.

FRANCO PLEDGES HE WILL STAY OUT OF EUROPEAN WAR

Plans to Make Spain a Fortress of Peace.

MEDINA DEL CAMPO, Spain, May 30.—(AP)—Gen. Francisco Franco today pledged Spain to the path of peace and declared the country would keep hands off any adventures that might threaten to involve her in a European war.

The Nationalist chief declared in a seven minute speech during victory celebrations of nearly 11,000 women Falangists [Fascists]:

"I want Spain to become a fortress but I do not want her to become a fortress to plunge herself into any adventures. I want her to become a fortress for peace. War goes far and involves the weaker countries; war respects the strong, and I want Spain to be strong so she will be able to assure her peace."

Aid in Reconstruction.

Pilar Primo de Rivera, leader of the Franco Women's Auxiliary, urged the women to show the same loyalty in the tasks of national reconstruction as they showed in helping soldiers during the civil war.

Must Die by Garrote.

MADRID, May 30 — [AP]—Convicted of 800 murders in Madrid, 21-year old José Delalamo Galilia was condemned today by a military tribunal at Santander to death by the garrote.

FRANCO PAYS OFF HIS 'WAR DEBT' TO NAZIS WITH FRUIT

Spanish Oranges Brighten Tables of Germans.

BERLIN, May 30.—(AP)—Oranges in seemingly plentiful quantities brightened Berlin tables tonight after many months of inability to get more than one or two, if any, because of the Nazi government's food conservation policy.

The appearance of the big boxes of the Spanish fruit in stores eased a burden for housewives and prompted many questions as to why oranges suddenly became plentiful. The customary answer given in streets was that Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Spanish Nationalist leader, was paying off part of his "war debt" to Germany in that way.

Germany Hoards Food.

Otherwise, German supplies of food and raw materials are practically on a wartime footing. Food hoarding has been undertaken on a gigantic scale by the German state. Canneries, day in and day out, are putting up meats, vegetables, and fruits as reserves against the rainy day that will come should the country be involved in a war.

Besides food, benzine, copper, nickel, textiles, and dozens of other commodities essential for the conduct of war are being stored. The food shortage experienced by the average citizen does not mean, however, that the country as such is so badly off. It reflects the scale on which the state is accumulating stocks for the army to live on.

About the first question any American resident in Germany hears from an American visitor is: "Is there really a food shortage here? I seem to be able to get all the butter and eggs I want, and there is some fruit."

Food Is Expensive.

The casual visitor, however, lives in the standard hotels. Or, if he lives with friends, they have done a bit of hoarding to provide the best possible entertainment for the guest.

This is part of an effort to make foreign travelers feel that food is plentiful. They do not usually notice that food is expensive, for they pay only about half of what a German or a foreigner who is a resident of the reich pay. An American resident in Germany gets about 2.48 reichsmarks for a dollar. An American visitor entitled to travel marks gets about 5.40 marks for a dollar, and naturally finds many things inexpensive.

Big hotels seem to have plenty of food for the traveler—but a long stay at one of them shows that the choice is limited and that they are being rationed.

American Banker Complains.

Another aspect was cited by an American banker who lives permanently at one hotel.

"I am getting thoroughly fed up," he said. "All sorts of things are on the printed menu, but when you ask for a particular thing most likely you can't get it."

At Berlin public markets available vegetables consist almost entirely of spinach and potatoes. Even sauerkraut—for which a government propaganda campaign was conducted last winter—is sold out until late summer. Butter, lard, and other fats are to be had only on a rationed basis—butter at the rate of 5.95 ounces per person per week.

Asparagus costs 36 to 40 cents per German pound, equivalent to 1.1 American pounds. Pork is sold only in proportion to the quantity of fats allowed each family. Mutton and veal are scarce. Beef is more plentiful, but often is frozen, not fresh.

One result of the meat shortage has been that private dinner parties have become infrequent. Families hesitate to invite guests when they do not know whether enough meat will be available to serve everybody.

Things like apples usually are kept out of sight in stores. Sometimes the grocer will reach under the counter—if the customer has bought other articles first—and condescendingly offer the purchaser second rate apples for about 32 cents a pound. Oranges usually sell for 22 to 26 cents a pound.

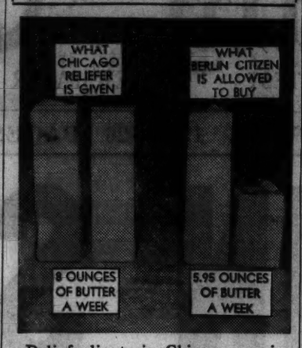
Grumble Over Lack of Coffee.

The scarcity of coffee has caused much complaint. Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels found it necessary to write an article ridiculing "coffee spinsters" who grouse about coffee when, he said, they ought to marvel at the Nazis' accomplishments. Coffee is rationed on the basis of one-eighth of a pound a week per person and costs from $1 to $1.70 a pound.

The average customer is lucky if he comes home from a tour of the markets with as many as five eggs, which cost him four or five cents each. Bananas, comparatively plentiful, cost about five cents apiece.

Housewives no longer dream about the traditional delicacy, cakes with whipped cream. A broadcast announcement recently said that there will be no whipped cream this summer, because cream must be used for making butter.

Food in 2 Cities



Relief clients in Chicago receive free 8 ounces of butter a person weekly from the federal government in addition to any they may buy with their relief checks. In Berlin citizens are allowed to buy only 5.95 ounces each a week.

A pound of apples, compared for size with a golf ball. These two apples cost 10 cents in Chicago; in Berlin a pound of apples costs 32 cents.

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

These two oranges (compared for size with a golf ball) can be bought for 10 cents in Chicago. A citizen of Berlin pays 22 to 26 cents a pound for oranges.

TRAILS HIS BRIDE AND TRAPS HER WITH DEAF RIVAL

Graham Chambers handed a note to Sergt. Herman Dorf at the Hudson avenue police station yesterday. It said that Chambers was a deaf-mute from Lena, Miss., and that he had come to Chicago to find his deaf-mute bride, Marie, 24 years old. The note said further that Chambers expected to find her in a hotel at 1205 North La Salle street with Benjamin Hall, 58, a deaf mute from Jackson, Miss.

Last night there came a telephone call to the station from the hotel. Chambers, waiting in the lobby, had seen his bride walk in with Hall and had backed Hall against the wall, threatening revenge. Policeman John Patrick Foley hurried over and took all three to the station.

There Chambers, who is 34 years old, told his bride in sign language that he still loved her and wanted her back. She answered with her fingers that she would rather go to jail than leave Hall.

Police locked her and Hall up for the night. Mrs. Chambers' husband departed sadly, hoping, according to his latest note, that she would change her mind. He said he had been put on the couple's trail by Mrs. Chambers' sister after Hall had made the mistake of writing friends in Lena.

A THIRD GENERAL ENTERS MEXICAN PRESIDENCY RACE

Almazan Steers Program to Middle of Road.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, May 30.—Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, popular army commander of the state of Nuevo Leon, will run for the presidency of Mexico, his political manager, Attorney Eduardo Neri, confirmed today.

Already there is much activity in the "pro-Almazan Exploration headquarters" here. The general has asked the war department for a leave of absence, effective on July 1, because no soldier may run for office while in active service. Almazan is expected to leave his headquarters in Monterrey and come here before June 6.

Gen. Almazan is a former secretary of war and former minister of communications and is regarded as a middle of the road candidate for the office which President Lazaro Cardenas leaves on Dec. 1, 1940.

Claims Moderate Stand.

Previously declared candidates are Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho and Gen. Joaquin Amaro. Avila Camacho is the candidate of the powerful National Revolutionary [government] party and is backed by Vicente Lombardo Toledano, the boss of Mexican labor. Gen. Amaro, who served under two presidents as secretary of war, has declared himself to be anti-communist and anti-Fascist.

Gen. Almazan, Attorney Neri said, is for a continuation of a "moderate revolutionary movement," but for a definite elimination of communism and Fascism.

Regarding the present land expropriation and redistribution program, Neri said:

"The peasants are not at all satisfied with the present administration, chiefly because it does not give them clear title to the parcels of land given them by the government. A clear deed to land for farmers will be one of Almazan's planks."

But Neri went on to say the deed will contain a clause barring the sale of the land "to prevent the accumulation of big ranchos again." Thus, it appears the farmers would be little better off.

Would Take Labor in Hand.

Neri was vehement on the subject of labor problems. The Almazan plank will be wholeheartedly for labor under the law, he said, but the present labor leaders must go. He continued:

"The present leaders are sucking the blood of the workmen through dues and contributions. They are hampering the industrial and economic progress of the country through encouraging useless strikes and walkouts for personal gain."

Neri promised a "square deal" for capital which he said had suffered much abuse through labor unrest and unreasonableness. He said investments would be encouraged and protected by the government, and investors "should get a good return, but exorbitant returns should be classed as unreasonable."

Regarding Mexico's foreign financial obligations, Neri said: "We want Mexico to be a respected democracy and it should merit that respect by complying with its political and commercial obligations and being on friendly terms with all other democratic countries."

Spanish Refugees Cause Split.

It is considered significant that Gen. Almazan is expected to arrive here just prior to the landing in Vera Cruz, Tampico, and several other eastern ports of several thousand refugees and soldiers fleeing republican [loyalist] Spain.

The government said the Spaniards were being admitted to aid agricultural and industrial development, but anti-Cardenas factions charge that Lombardo Toledano is bringing in the veteran "Red" soldiers to train his labor army as a challenge to the regular Mexican military forces. The Mexican army always has been the power in Mexican politics.

What Lombardo Toledano could expect to gain is not clear and the propaganda attending the approach of the Spaniards seems more psychological than substantial. However, it has aroused considerable tension in political circles.

A warm welcome is promised by spokesmen of both sides. It is reported Lombardo Toledano will have a large gathering of worker "shock troops" at Vera Cruz to welcome the "friendly immigrants." Voices from Franco sympathizers on the Almazan side say they will have a force on hand to show the newcomers what a real fight is.

David Alfaro Siqueiros, who is ranked with Diego Rivera and José Clemente Orozco as a brilliant mural painter, recently returned from Spain where he was a colonel in the loyalist army. He is one of the leaders of leftism in Mexico and is working closely with Lombardo Toledano. He said the leftists would join the workers at Vera Cruz in welcoming the Spaniards. He declared: "We will carry on a publicity campaign in favor of immigration of Spanish loyalists in large numbers."

MORE TROUBLE BESETS BRITISH, RUSSIAN TALKS

Soviets Demand Pact Be Free of League.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 30.—On the eve of Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov's address to the Russian supreme soviet [parliament] Russian Ambassador Ivan Maisky called at the foreign office this afternoon for further consultations on British counter-proposals for a pact to check Nazi aggression.

Vyacheslav Molotov.

There still is a lot of uncertainty as to the exact nature and meaning of the British government's plan and the main purpose of Maisky's visit was to seek elucidation on obscure points. The ambassador conferred with Sir Lancelot Oliphant, deputy to Foreign Minister Viscount Halifax, who is on Whitsuntide vacation.

After more than two months of dickering the London-Moscow project for a working alliance between British imperialism and Russian bolshevism is encountering heavy weather.

British Lean Toward League.

The British formula provides for reference to the league of nations if aggression takes place and it is tied up with sanctions provided by article 16 of the covenant. The Kremlin interprets this as meaning pledges of mutual assistance would not operate automatically and that action might be delayed indefinitly if it were dependent on a war guilt verdict from the league council.

The Russians object to this process, diplomatic sources disclose, as too cumbersome to deal with modern aggressors. They want any allusion to the league of nations covenant deleted.

[A dispatch from the Paris bureau of The Tribune last night said that the soviet ambassador to France, Jakob Souritz, had called on the French foreign minister, Georges Bonnet, and explained to him that the Russian government was opposed to any nonaggression agreement which would operate within the framework of the league of nations.]

Other points on which Maisky demanded amplification from the British were the question of staff talks and the operation of the mutual aid system in the event of a German threat to the Baltic states, on which the British formula apparently is studicusly vague.

Russians Want Staff Talks.

The Russians demand that teeth be put into the proposed alliance by immediate staff talks among British, French, and soviet military experts.

British politicians are awaiting the speech by Foreign Commissar Molotov with keen interest. Molotov, it is thought, may tell the Russian parliament just how his government feels about the British proposals.

POLAND TURNS DOWN DEMAND OF DANZIG IN SLAYING DISPUTE

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

DANZIG, May 30.—In a note to the Danzig government today, Poland declined the former's request for the withdrawal of three Polish officials whose chauffeur shot and killed a Danzig German at Kalthof on May 21. Warsaw said, however, that it was ready to collaborate with the Danzig authorities to prevent further violence.

Danzig's external calm has not been disturbed since the Kalthof attack, but business men say the state of mind is far from tranquil. They say that trade has been checked by fear of war and apprehension of an economic setback, which all agree would result from German annexation of this territory.

CHINESE FORTS AT FOOCHOW DRIVE OFF JAP WARSHIPS

FOOCHOW, China, May 30.—(AP)—Japanese warships today attempted to run past forts guarding the Min river approach to Foochow, but were forced back by shellfire from the Chinese forts.

The war vessels returned to the attack, however, after bringing up reinforcements from among naval craft anchored off the mouth of the Min river, which is 380 miles south of Shanghai. At nightfall the Chinese forts and warships still were exchanging heavy fire.

Chinese Strength Grows.

HONG KONG, May 30.—(AP)—Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang, vice minister of the Chinese military affairs commission, asserted today that more efficient Chinese resistance between March 1 and May 15 had resulted in the death of 120,138 Japanese soldiers. The former war lord, known as the "Christian General," said 2,100 Japanese troops had been taken prisoner, twenty-nine invading warships sunk and twenty-six war planes shot down.

TWO ARABS SHOT WHILE ON BUS IN JEWISH QUARTER

[Copyright, 1939, By the New York Times.]

JERUSALEM, May 30.—Two Arab passengers were wounded early this morning when an Arab owned bus traveling through the Jerusalem Jewish quarter of Jahne Yehuda was fired on. Shortly afterward an Arab crowd stoned Jewish owned buses on the outskirts of Jerusalem, injuring two Jewish drivers and one woman and one man passenger.

Arab crowds continued stoning Jewish owned buses in that vicinity until the drivers fired into the air with licensed revolvers. Police arrived and dispersed the crowds, but four buses were damaged.

Khalil Shaheen, Mukhtar [chieftain] of Bethlehem and a member of the Palestine defense party, which is in opposition to the mufti of Jerusalem, was shot dead early this morning in Bethlehem by an unidentified Arab.

Say Bombs Used in British Blasts Were Made in U. S.

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, May 30.—Experts who examined fragments of tear gas bombs which were exploded in several Liverpool movie theaters yesterday, have decided they were of American origin, the Daily Herald said today. The bombs were believed to be part of a large supply reported to have been smuggled from the United States by members of the Irish Republican army. Five more bomb attempts—two in Birmingham and three in Coventry—were discovered today.

HITLER'S GUARDS SEIZE PALACE OF CATHOLIC BISHOP

Primate Forced to Move Into Seminary.

SALZBURG, Germany, May 30.—(AP)—The palace of Archbishop Sigismund Waltz of Salzburg, the Catholic primate of Germany, was in possession of the Nazi black shirted élite guard tonight after an appeal directly to Reichsfuehrer Hitler had gone unheeded.

Arrow locates city where palace was seized.

The archbishop asked the Fuehrer to rescind the seizure order, which deprived him of the use of his residence. Authorities seized the building yesterday while the archbishop was away. All the furnishings were removed and stored.

The primate, finding himself dispossessed, took temporary residence in a seminary. What steps he planned next were not disclosed.

Palace Is State Property.

Archbishop Waltz was notified by authorities a month ago that he would have to leave the palace, which is state property, on the contention Hitler guards needed the building.

At that time the archbishop wrote to Hitler asking him to countermand the order because, he said, Emperor Francis I. of Austria had guaranteed the church the privilege of using the palace and certain other properties in 1805.

This action followed the secularization of 1802, by which all property belonging to the archbishopric of Salzburg became state property.

Last October the archbishop was the object of a demonstration in front of the palace in which the crowd chorused "away with Waltz." During the incident some of the windows in the palace building were smashed.

Carry Out Furnishings.

Archbishop Waltz also was deprived last October of the privilege of supervising religious education in the elementary schools of the Salzburg district.

Furniture vans drew up to the palace yesterday while the archbishop was out of town on a religious mission. A dozen workmen carried out all the furnishings.

Government photographers preceded the movers, and took pictures in all rooms, presumably as a catalog of how the palace was furnished. Archbishop Waltz returned to Salzburg today and found his palace empty and Hitler guards preparing to move in.

2 Polish Nobles Die When Plane Crashes in Takeoff

LUBLIN, Poland, May 30.—(AP)—Count Stanislas Zamogski and Count Jan Toszkevicz, both members of famous Polish families, were killed today when their airplane crashed during a takeoff.

HUNGARIAN VOTE SHOWS BIG SWING TOWARD NAZIISM

Hitler Accused of Buying Election.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, May 30.—(AP)—Increased Nazi influence in Hungarian affairs, binding this country closer to the Rome-Berlin axis, was forecast by political observers on the basis of complete parliamentary election returns published today.

Early figures were hailed as a government victory in the balloting on Sunday and yesterday, but the final results appeared to be a near triumph for Reichsfuehrer Hitler's admirers in Hungary. Accusations were heard among government party members that Germany had brought pressure to bear in the elections.

Nazis Win Many Seats.

Premier Count Paul Teleki, who formed the government's mildly extremist Hungarian Life party in an attempt to cut ground from under the Nazis, was expected to have plenty of headaches with the new lower house of parliament.

Pushed by more than 100 Nazis and Nazi sympathizers in the new chamber, whose membership is 260, Count Teleki is expected to be forced to move closer to Germany in foreign and domestic policies if he is to keep the government reins in his own hands.

The complete returns showed that the Nazi arrow cross party jumped its delegation from three to twenty-eight members. Minor Nazi parties elected seventeen members.

Charge Nazi Slush Fund.

Further, a study of the newly returned deputies' records showed that sixty of the 185 elected under the government party's symbol have displayed strong Nazi leanings in the past. Opposition parties, of other Nazi leanings, got twenty-two seats. Count Teleki, who wanted 200 sure deputies for his government party, now finds nearly half the house potentially against him.

Government party circles charged that Berlin's agents amassed millions of depreciated Hungarian pengo banknotes abroad, then mailed them into Hungary for use by the Nazi parties as slush funds. They asserted that this explained a sudden rise in the value of pengo banknotes abroad in the two weeks before the election. From eleven pengoes to the dollar abroad, the quotation went to seven to the dollar, without any economic or financial development in Hungary to justify such a rise.

CAPITAL TAKES STOCK OF SWING TO VANDENBERG

Recognized as Most Able of G. O. P. Contenders.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 30.—[Special.]—In politically minded Washington today, the launching of the candidacy of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg for the Republican nomination for President is being discussed as the most momentous event since the 1938 elections.

Senator Vandenberg's letter to the Michigan Republicans who are proposing to draft him for the nomination produced much the effect of a political bombshell. The senator's suggestions of a coalition of conservative Democrats with Republicans in the next administration, and of prepledging the Republican candidate to a single term in the presidency, are being attended by repercussions in both Republican and Democratic precincts.

Most Able of Contenders.

Republican leaders with few exceptions look upon the Vandenberg nomination movement as exceedingly formidable for numerous reasons. Of all those who are being considered seriously for the nomination, the senator is unquestionably the ablest and most experienced practitioner of statecraft. He unquestionably is the most forceful and effective Republican in the senate. He is an orator of parts and an accomplished debater.

A liberal Republican, whose advocacy of social reforms ante-dated the New Deal itself, Vandenberg is an outstanding leader in exposing the fallacies, failures and extravagances of New Deal panaceas. It is common knowledge in Washington that he is more feared by the New Dealers, from the President down, than any other of their critics.

Beats Florida Ship Canal.

An illuminating illustration was the Florida ship canal. But for Vandenberg, the New Dealers would have carried out this 300 million dollar raid on the treasury. Vandenberg beat it virtually single handed.

In addition to these considerations, Vandenberg possesses great personal magnetism and popularity. And he is the most widely known of the entire group of potential candidates for the nomination.

Under these circumstances, many Republican leaders expect Vandenberg to enter the Republican national convention with far more delegates than any competitor. Although he will not seek the nomination, it is understood his name will be entered by friends in the presidential primaries in Illinois and other states.

Will Stay Out of Ohio.

In these contests, Vanderberg would be a formidable contender with whom rivals may well hesitate to try conclusions. Presumably, the Michigan senator will not enter the primary in Ohio, which has two potential candidates—Senator Robert A. Taft and Gov. John W. Bricker.

Friends of Thomas E. Dewey, the New York prosecutor, have taken steps to form a Dewey for President organization in Illinois and presumably will enter his name in the Illinois primary. Illinois, therefore, may be the scene next April of an early testing of the popularity of Vandenberg, Dewey, and perhaps one or both of the Ohio presidential possibilities.

Greatly to the advantage of Vandenberg is the consideration that if the New Deal is defeated next year, the incoming administration, to be successful, must be a coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats.

Success Hinges in Senate.

The Republicans may elect the President and capture the house of representatives, but they cannot possibly regain the senate before 1942. Hence to retrench expenditures and halt other excesses of the New Deal, the Republican administration would need the support of conservative Democrats in the senate for the passage of remedial legislation. There is nobody better qualified to obtain such support than Vandenberg, with whom the conservative Democrats have long been allied in combatting radical and wasteful New Deal schemes.

Vandenberg's views of the necessity of a coalition government are such that the conservative Democrats would have reason to expect that in the event of his election he would give them representation in the cabinet and other high posts. That consideration might be a powerful factor in attracting Democratic support to the Republican ticket, in the event of the renomination of Mr. Roosevelt.

SNITE RECEIVES PAPAL BLESSING BY TELEGRAM

LOURDES, France, May 30.—(AP)—Fred B. Snite Jr., of Chicago, who made a 5,000 mile pilgrimage in an iron lung to the shrine of the Virgin of Lourdes, today received a special blessing from Pope Pius XII. by telegram.

The pope's telegram was sent by Cardinal Luigi Maglione, papal secretary of state, through The Very Rev. Frederick C. Dietz of Oberlin, O., who is staying with Snite at Lourdes. Father Dietz, procurator general at Rome of the Maryknoll Foreign Mission society, was a missionary in China three years ago when Snite was stricken with infantile paralysis.

Snite, in a telegram replying to the pope's message, said he was bewildered by prayers being said for him all over the world.

ROOSEVELT SAYS FARLEY REPORTS 1940 HOPE GOOD

Reveals Plans for Trip to Pacific Coast.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., May 30.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today said Postmaster General James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, had given him a very favorable report on the political situation for 1940.

Mr. Roosevelt did not say whether he intends to run for a third term or whether he had a candidate to carry on the New Deal for the next presidential campaign.

Asked whether he had discussed politics with the genial postmaster general, who ended a cross-country tour last Friday, which many observers believed was a bid for the presidential or vice presidential nomination in 1940, Mr. Roosevelt said, "O, my yes, for hours."

"And was it favorable?" he was asked.

"Most favorable," was the reply.

Questioners Puzzled.

This puzzled reporters because it was their general belief that despite Farley's statement that he was merely selling stamps, he made the trip to sound out sentiment for himself.

In some quarters, however, it was felt that Farley was again out campaigning for his chief and working to put Mr. Roosevelt across in 1940, despite the reports of a rift between them.

This belief was supported by Farley's speeches on the trip. He consistently said, when asked about his prospects, that it is foolish for any one to talk of running for the Democratic nomination until the President has declared himself on the third term question.

When the President was asked about the declaration of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] that he would run for the Republican nomination should it be offered him, Mr. Roosevelt said that was news.

Plans Western Trip.

The President said that he will decide this week whether he will wait for congress to adjourn or make a fast dash to the San Francisco Golden Gate exposition while congress still is in session.

He said that he would see what odds are being offered on capitol hill, on adjournment, particularly those in the office of Vice President John N. Garner, who is leading in current polls for the Democratic nomination in 1940.

When he gets the concensus late this week, the President said, he will be able to guess whether congress will quit by July 15 or will run on for some weeks. If congress will quit July 15, he said, he would put off his western trip until that time and if not he will leave the White House June 15.

The President left for Washington at 11 p. m.

IGNACE PADEREWSKI, WEAK AND FATIGUED, LEAVES FOR EUROPE

New York, May 30.—[Special.]—Ignace Jan Paderewski, appearing tired, obviously weak from the heart attack he suffered last Thursday, sailed tonight for Europe aboard the liner Normandie after expressing himself as even being more sorry than usual to leave the United States. He canceled the remainder of his tour.

The noted Polish pianist stepped aboard the vessel several hours before its midnight sailing. Only one or two friends visited him in his suite, where he was hurriedly aided by his staff.

JOHN BARRYMORE STRICKEN WITH A HEART ATTACK

John Barrymore, the actor, who is appearing in a play, "My Dear Children" at the Selwyn, suffered a slight heart attack yesterday and was forced to cancel last night's appearance. Barrymore is 57 years old.

The attack occurred in his rooms at the Ambassador East hotel. He has been under the care of Dr. W. H. Highstone ever since his arrival in Chicago early in the month. Dr. Highstone said last night that the attack occurred while he was present. He blamed it on the strain of personal appearances Barrymore has made recently in addition to his stage work.

Dr. Highstone said Barrymore probably would be able to return to the theater for this afternoon's performance, but said it would be necessary for him to curtail other activities.

HEAR TESTIMONY ON PAPER MILK BOTTLES TODAY

Expert to Give Evidence in Injunction Suit.

The court battle over the proposed use of paper bottles for milk in Chicago will continue today with the testimony of Dr. Raymond J. Sanborn, head of the Geneva, N. Y., experiment station, before Joseph Grossman, federal master in chancery.

Fieldcrest Dairies, Inc., is seeking an injunction to restrain the Chicago board of health from interfering with the sale of milk in the paper bottles. In its reply to the request for a writ the city asserted that the containers do not meet standards set by Chicago's milk ordinance.

Dr. Sanborn is expected to testify that during his experiments over several years the paper bottles have kept milk purer than glass bottles. The Geneva laboratory is an extension of Cornell university.

Deadlocked Over Tests.

The company and the city reached a deadlock Monday regarding tests of the containers asked by the board of health. These tests were to determine whether milk would be absorbed into the paraffined paper, and the effect of the paraffin process on bacteria in the paper, if any.

Samuel E. Dean Jr., head of the company, said the Winnetka board of health, which supervises his plant, refused to permit virulent germs to be brought into the dairy for the tests. The state board of health supported this refusal, he said.

"We already have run similar tests, which would take from six months to a year if scientifically performed," said Dean.

"At the University of Illinois it was found that a paper container covered with 286,000 bacteria was completely free from them after the paraffin process. The same result could not be claimed for glass bottles put through the ordinary washing process."

Tells of Offering Materials.

Dean said that during the last two years he repeatedly had offered materials to the board of health for the tests, but that the board did not reply to his offers.

Walter V. Schaefer, assistant corporation counsel acting for the board, took a different view of the tests.

"The board instructed me that the tests should be made under actual dairy operating conditions," he said. "Laboratory conditions differ, and may or may not produce the same results."

Only one month would be required for the tests, he said, according to Dr. Lloyd Arnold, head of the bacteriology department of the University of Illinois. Dr. Arnold is a member of the health board.

Grossman will be asked to rule whether the tests shall be made.

CHICAGO COUPLE AND BOY DROWN IN 2 ACCIDENTS

Lawrence Le Mieux.

Memorial day brought death yesterday to three Chicagoans in two separate drownings.

George La Voie, 40 years old, and his wife, Josephine, 39, of 5848 Normal boulevard, were in a small motorboat when it overturned early in the day in the Iroquois river 18 miles south of Kankakee. Two others in the boat, Miss Mildred Steed, 25, of 521 West 42d street, and Morris Fields, 25, of 4420 Emerald avenue, managed to save themselves. They told police someone in the tiny craft shifted position just before it capsized.

In Chicago Lawrence Le Mieux, 7, of 2801 North Leavitt street, fell into the north branch of the Chicago river at Diversey parkway. A playmate, Harold Damitz, 9, of 2307 Lister avenue, told police Lawrence lost his balance while reaching for a minnow. Efforts of a fire department rescue squad to revive him failed.

CIVIC FEDERATION URGES DEFEAT OF TWO BOND ISSUES

Cites Tax Load; Proposals Are on Monday Ballot.

Defeat of two proposed bond issues which will appear on a separate small ballot in the judicial election Monday was urged yesterday by the Civic federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency.

The issues would provide $2,400,000 for improvements at the Oak Forest infirmary [Cook county poor house], to accommodate 1,520 inmates, and $1,800,000 for additions to the County hospital, to make places for 1,369 new patients.

Tax Increase Cited.

Admitting the need for the improvements, Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary of the federation, nevertheless contended that county finances are not equal to the additional burden.

Taxes would be increased 17½ mills per $100 assessed property valuation to finance the bond issue, he said Moreover, operating costs for the institutions would increase if the improvements were made, adding an estimated 111 mills per $100 valuation, he said.

Sutherland also agreed that if federal aid, paying from 45 to 55 per cent of the cost of construction, is received the program could be carried out now at lower cost than if done piecemeal during the next ten years.

"The county is in such a precarious condition that it probably will be impossible to provide the additional services, even if the buildings are erected," Sutherland declared.

Near Constitutional Limit.

Sutherland estimated the 1939 county tax rate at 62 cents per $100 valuation. The constitutional limit is 75 cents. Not only would 13 cents for bond and operating costs bring the rate up to the limit but when collections of penalties on delinquent taxes go down to normal, as expected, the county would face a real crisis, he said.

William Busse, a member of the county board, which voted to submit the proposition to the voters, said Sutherland is right about the financial aspects of the bond issue.

"We would need more nurses, and operating costs certainly would rise if the improvements are made," said Busse.

Chile Will Float Loan to Pay for Oil Properties

SANTIAGO, Chile, May 30.—(AP)—The finance ministry, which has warned United States and British oil companies that a government oil monopoly would be established by Sept. 3, said today that the companies would be paid the value of their properties. An internal loan of 60,000,000 pesos [$2,000,000] will be floated for the purpose. Undersecretary of Finance Francisco Jorquera said formation of the government monopoly does not mean "the government will cease buying foreign petroleum, since it has no oil wells."

BODY FOUND ON TRACKS.

The body of an unidentified man about 50 years old was found yesterday on the tracks of the New York Central railroad near 67th street and South Park avenue.

ANGLES FOR ANGLERS

By CALEB

WITH outing days in sight on the calendar, off to the coastal and inland waters of Nova Scotia, Florida, the Gulf of Mexico, Canada, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, will again go an army of more than six million fishermen! And for the accoutering of these piscatorial cohorts exists one of the most colorful of contemporary businesses: that of the fly and tackle maker.

In his onslaught against the salmon, trout, black bass and "muskie" of American waters, your modern Izaak Walton uses an array of lures that beggars description for variety and multiplicity. Names therefor would rival a Pullman roster—and the fur and feather resources of every known country are very nearly exhausted to provide the necessary materials.

The language of the fly-addict, in fact, literally bristles with such word and phrase fascinations as Jock Scott, Royal Coachman, Montreal, Queen of Waters, Silver Doctor, Beaverkill, the McGinty, Durham Ranger, Dusty Miller, Red Ibis, White Miller, Lord Baltimore, Wickham's Fancy, and hundreds more; each a brilliant-hued creation irresistible to some finny victim of rolling wave or darkling pool.

Rare skill and artistry vie in the actual building of one of these lures. A classic example is that favorite of many fishers, the Jock Scott. Beautiful as it is famous—this fly is a composite of twenty-two different materials from eleven different countries. The hook, from Norway; gamecock feathers from China; blue-jay feathers from England; Indian crow from East India; toucan from South Africa; macaw from South America; black ostrich from Africa; ibis from Egypt; golden pheasant from China; wild goose, teal and turkey from America; tinsel and cord from France; black and yellow silk floss from Japan—are among the ingredients of this single fisherman's favorite.

Most tackle, whether for fresh or salt water use, is crafted in England and America, and each year sees new styles and combinations introduced by maker to user. A number carry the names of famous U. S. fishermen like Dr. Sutton, Zane Grey, Michael Lerner, and ex-Gov. Pinchot; many others are christened for other famous people, or for less famous insects.

As one scans the current fishing-tackle showings in our Store for Men, he realizes how even the world's oldest sport has become, as well, one of its most picturesque fields of manufacture.

BIGGEST PARADE IN YEARS HONORS WAR HERO DEAD

Peace Keynote of Chicago Memorial Day.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

They came down Michigan avenue yesterday, the light of storied battles rekindled in their aging eyes. Fifteen of them were there, fifteen out of all those doughty thousands Chicago sent forth to the Union army more than three-quarters of a century ago to be among the heroes of Chickamauga, of Vicksburg, of Shiloh.

Raymond Lewkowicz, 3, watches parade between legs of Policeman John Prescott.

And after these fifteen men of the Grand Army, and Navy, of the Republic had ridden in automobiles to the reviewing stand at Congress street they watched a city pay homage to its war dead.

Parade Among City's Largest.

It was the 71st Memorial day parade and one of the greatest in Chicago's history. There were fifty thousand persons in the marching ranks. More than four times that number lined the sidewalks from Chicago avenue to Roosevelt road.

The reviewing stand was filled with dignitaries. Lieut. Gov. John Stelle was there, and United States Senator Scott Lucas, and high army and navy officers.

Dennis W. Finley was one of them. He sat in the front row of the reviewing stand and he talked of his service with Bridge's independent battery in the 1st Illinois artillery, and later with Kit Carson and Custer in the Indian wars. He is 91 and lives at 4349 Washington boulevard.

Bugler Still Tooting at 91.

Charles O. Brown, another youngster of 91, was there, too. He lives at 831 South Grove avenue, Oak Park.

He was 16 years old when he became bugler of troop C in the 3d Ohio cavalry.

"And they made me chief bugler of the regiment within a month," he said. "I was the best bugler they ever had."

Spanish War Vets Spry.

The Spanish-American war veterans are graying and aged, too, but many of them marched in the parade. After them came members of posts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion.

The next division of the parade was composed of all Chicago units of the Illinois National Guard, three battalions of the Illinois Naval militia, and four companies of the marine corps reserve. Gold Star mothers, whose sons died in the world war, were also in this division.

A division of nonveteran organizations brought up the rear. R. O. T. C. units, Boy Scouts, the Sheffield drum and bugle corps, and the Chicago fire department.

Memorial services were held in 123 cemeteries throughout the country and graves of 25,000 of the soldier dead were adorned with blue staffed flags.

Fears No U. S. Invasion.

Senator Lucas spoke in Rosehill cemetery, where 2,553 soldiers are buried. A crowd of 1,500 persons heard him plead for America to stand aloof from European conflict.

"In order to be neutral," he said, "we must be neutral in fact as well as theory, and to save America we cannot permit our feelings to run riot over the problems of other nations. I fear no one coming across the ocean to conquer America. Rumors of that sort are only propaganda aimed at embroiling us in Europe's squabbles."

DIES OF AUTO INJURIES.

Rock Island, Ill., May 30.—[Special.]—Reuben Dunbar, 51 years old, a world war veteran, died last night of injuries suffered when he was hit by an automobile driven by Kirk Burkhart of Davenport on May 17. Burkhart is held under a $3,000 bond.

CLASS HATRED PERILS UNITY OF U. S., SAYS BYRD

Senator Sounds Warning at Gettysburg.

Gettysburg, Pa., May 30.—(AP)—Senator Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.], the first southerner to deliver a Memorial day address on this civil war battleground, declared today that sectional hatreds between the states had been replaced by new class animosities.

Senator Byrd.

The nation's unity, he said, is threatened by racial and religious prejudice and envy, hatred and jealousy between those who have accumulated property and those who have not.

"What will it accomplish us," Byrd asked, "to achieve sectional unity, only to be divided by economic dissension?"

Fears Centralized Rule.

Contending that the nation needed "not more federal government but better local government," Byrd urged his hearers to "resist the trend of federal centralization."

"Among other things," he said, "true liberalism in America means preserving and protecting from attack from any source whatsoever the immortal principle that our government was established in three branches—the judicial, the legislative, the executive—free of coercion or control, one from the other.

Sanctity of Property Essential.

"The maintenance of law and order under all conditions, the preservation of the principle of the sanctity of private property from mob possession are the basis of every form of liberal democracy; in fact, of any form of constitutional government.

"Private enterprise, and not the government, must provide employment for our citizens. It is a foundation stone upon which our democracy is founded. When private enterprise fails, then representative democracy fails.

Taft Warns of Europe's Isms.

Washington, D. C., May 30.—(AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft [R., Ohio], standing amid the graves of thousands who fought in past wars, today urged America to avoid Europe's isms and wars.

"American principles," he said at Memorial day exercises in Arlington cemetery, "have succeeded as no other principles have succeeded.

"We must not substitute for industry and thrift and a proper recognition of ability, any alien panaceas of a purely socialistic nature.

"The United States need not remain entirely aloof from other nations. To avoid war it is not necessary to ignore the other nations of the world. We can be friendly to all."

Some persons, Taft said, "favor methods short of war, but no nation can take methods short of war unless it is prepared to carry through the war to which such measures inevitably lead."

MIDSHIPMEN CARRY OUT ANNUAL FETE OF PRESENTING COLORS

Annapolis, Md., May 30.—[Special.]—The Naval academy today carried out the ceremony of the presentation of the colors. Midshipman Benjamin C. Jarvis of Pine Bluff, Ark., commander of the 1st company, received the national colors and naval standard from the hands of Miss Frances Norfleet Moses of Little Rock, whom he complimented with an invitation to become the "color girl" of the year, and with whose acceptance he was honored.

DELAY RAISING OF SUBMARINE TO HONOR DEAD

Portsmouth, N. H., May 30.—(AP)—Guns boomed in salute today from naval ships anchored 15 miles off this port and, from a coast guard airplane, flowers floated to the surface of the sea in tribute to the 26 men still entombed aboard the sunken submarine Squalus.

As the first of the 21 guns thundered above the Squalus the ensigns of the fleet of salvage craft were lowered to half mast. More than 1,000 officers and men aboard the vessels paused in their tasks to observe the navy's traditional Memorial day tribute to its dead.

Rough water had interrupted the work of salvaging the 4 million dollar submarine, which sank a week ago today, and the bitter cold of the deep water had forced technicians to devise plans for moving it to a shallower and warmer spot.

Presbyterians Condemn 'Anti-Semitism Whispers'

Cleveland, O., May 30.—(AP)—Shipment of munitions to aggressor nations and "the whispering campaign of anti-semitism" were condemned today by the 151st general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. The assembly urged passage of legislation forbidding shipment of arms and munitions "to any nation that crosses the territorial boundaries of another nation."

FREE DIAGNOSTIC CANCER SERVICE TO START SOON

Illinois Program Hailed by Woman Doctor.

Dr. Marguerite Kunde.

Free cancer diagnostic service soon will become available in Illinois through a bill approved in the state legislature last week. The service will provide a full-time pathologist in the state department of public health who will examine lesions suspected of being cancerous for the medically needy and will report his findings to family physicians for treatment.

The bill, regarded as the first step in the control of cancer, was written by Dr. Marguerite Meta Kunde, endocrinologist and member of the clinical staff of Northwestern university. Its passage had been urged for two years by the Business and Professional Women's club of Chicago, of which Dr. Kunde is health chairman.

Need of Early Diagnosis Told.

"The only effective methods for the treatment of cancer depend on intensive follow up after early diagnosis of the disease," said Dr. Kunde yesterday. "Thousands of people cannot pay the fee necessary for making an early laboratory diagnosis, inasmuch as this involves costly technical pathological procedure. As a result, the disease makes such great headway that it cannot be checked.

"Cancer is primarily a woman's problem because it occurs most frequently in the breast and cervex. All women between the ages of 20 and 40 should have periodic examinations by their family physicians to make sure there is no suspicion of this disease. If, on such examination, the physician suspects cancer, he can take a piece of the lesion and send it to the state diagnostic service for free examination."

Hails Start of Program.

Dr. Kunde believes that the new program is only the beginning of effective measures for ameliorating the ravages of cancer.

"Much is done for research," she said, "but little is done to give hope or relief to the potential cancer victim of tomorrow. The Business and Professional Women of Illinois have pledged themselves to pursue this problem until treatment, as well as diagnosis, is given by the state to the needy."

No decision has been made as to the location of the diagnostic service bureau, which will include a pathologist, a technician, and a stenographer.

$25,400 Fund Provided.

The law, which was sponsored by Representative Lottie Holman O'Neill [Rep., Downers Grove], provides an appropriation of $25,400.

A second cancer control bill, sponsored by Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago] is pending in the legislature. It provides $4,000 to create a cancer advisory board in the state department of public health and to carry on a program of education.

Seized as Robbers

A quirk of fate resulted in the arrest yesterday of two men and a young woman who have confessed committing seven robberies in the last week. They are George Pocheki, 22 years old, of 844 North Fairfield avenue; Alex Giese, also 22, of 730 West Evergreen avenue, and Giese's wife, Genevieve, 19.

Policemen Edward Sureck and Carl Koehler stopped the automobile in which the three were riding at Elston and Diversey avenues because it had no license plates. When Pocheki, the driver, produced the plates the policemen were about to allow him to continue when the radio in the police car, parked alongside, broadcast a message asking all officers to be on the lookout for two men and a woman riding in a car like Pocheki's. At the Shakespeare station robbery victims identified the robbers.

CANADA A BRIDGE FROM EUROPE TO EAST, KING SAYS

Urges Friendly Relations Rather than Conflict.

VICTORIA, B. C., May 30.—(AP)—King George VI. of Great Britain today called on Canada to become a mediating force between the east and the west, widening her rôle of interpretation for the benefit of mankind. To the vast unsettled arctic, he waved his hand, and said in effect, "go north, young man."

Speaking at the official luncheon given by the provincial government of British Columbia, the king discussed Canada's future in the realm of world affairs, giving emphasis to the thought held by British and Canadian statesmen that the North American dominion is destined to become the interpreter, go-between, or mediator, between the old world and the United States, and in a larger sense, between the east and the west.

Windows on Two Seas.

Canada's "Atlantic windows look to Europe, her Pacific windows to Asia and the far east," said the king.

"As science reduces the barriers of space, this country will become a thoroughfare between two hemispheres. Some day the people of the world will come to realize that prosperity lies in coöperation and not in conflict."

There were few adventurous young men among the portly, formally-dressed provincial dignitaries of British Columbia ranks at the government luncheon, but the king spoke to Canada's hardy youngsters when he said:

"You have only touched the fringes of the north. Once those northern wilds were considered of little value. Now valuable mines are being worked right up to the arctic circle.

Three Cheers and a Tiger.

"There in the north is a field of enterprise for youth which it will take generations to exhaust. I would only wish that it had been possible for me to make a trip into that region which holds so much of Canada's future."

For the first time in Canada, a speech by King George was interrupted by handclapping and cheering. Then the king and queen also heard something new in cheering in the "three cheers and a tiger" called for by one of the provincial ministers.

"Let er go," the minister shouted in very un-English enthusiasm.

The king and queen laughed.

Victoria closed stores and homes today and, in fine weather, took to the streets and parks to cheer the king and queen on their 13-mile ride to the city hall, to the provincial legislative buildings where members of the legislature and their wives were presented, and, in the afternoon, to Beacon Hill park where the king presented colors to the royal Canadian navy.

The king and queen spent tonight here and will leave tomorrow by boat for Vancouver. Thence their train will take them on the backward trail across the continent, visiting Jasper, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Winnipeg and southern Ontario cities before crossing into the United States on June 7 for a four days' stay.

BOY DROWNS IN CITY POOL.

Centralia, Ill., May 30.—[Special.]—Bernard Pinkstaff, 12 years old, drowned in the new municipal swimming pool here this afternoon, unnoticed by the crowd of several hundred other bathers. His body was recovered after he had been missed.

QUEEN CHOOSES 'LOVELIEST DRESS' ON VICTORIA VISIT

VICTORIA, B. C., May 30.—(AP)—Queen Elizabeth wore the loveliest dress she has worn in Canada for the eager eyes of the people of this very English city today. Right from the keeper of the royal wardrobe came this description labeled "unofficial." The dress was:

A floor length frock of palest lilac with matching long gloves, envelope bag and pumps.

Made with a short bolero of matching material, the bolero with short sleeves. The front of the dress, neck to hem, was embroidered in lilac braid the exact shade of the crepe in the dress—the braid made a panel up the front of the frock. The bolero was also embroidered in the braid.

The orchids, which the queen wore pinned to her shoulder with a long diamond bar pin, were the same shade as her frock. Her hat was the largest she was worn so far. It was of fine lilac straw. It had the usual turned up, off the face brim, and was trimmed with the same braid as her dress. She wore two strands of pearls.

A. F. OF L. SPURNS REFORM PLEDGES OF LABOR BOARD

Called 'Stalling' to Balk Action by Congress.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 30.—[Special.]—In a last minute effort to undermine proposals to amend the Wagner labor relations act before congress adjourns, members of the Labor Relations board are throwing out hints of administrative changes in rules and regulations to meet certain demands on the part of employers and the American Federation of Labor.

To date these promises of reform by administrative action have failed to impress the A. F. of L., which is seeking not only a general overhauling of the law, but the creation of a new five man board to replace the present three member agency. The A. F. of L. accuses the present board of flagrant prejudice in favor of John L. Lewis' Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Sparring for Time.

Opponents of the labor board regard the vague promises of administrative reform as a strategical expedient intended to buttress the more fundamental policy of stalling to thwart action at this session of congress.

For weeks the administration leaders in congress postponed hearings by the senate and house labor committees on Wagner act amendments on the plea that peace negotiations between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O., called by President Roosevelt, should not be jeopardized. Unable to stall any longer, the senate labor committee began hearings on April 11, and the house committee commenced on May 1.

The hearings have been delsultory, having all the characteristics of a filibuster. The committees meet on the average of three days a week and each labor board witness requires about three days for his elaborate presentation.

Concession to Employers.

First Senator Robert F. Wagner [D., N. Y.], sponsor of the act, told the senate committee that certain "valid" objections made by the A. F. of L. could be met by a change in rules and regulations of the board.

Among other things, Wagner said the board had authority to permit employers, as well as employés, to petition the board for an election to determine the proper collective bargaining agency.

J. Warren Madden, chairman of the labor board, intimated before the house committee that the board would amend its regulations to permit employers, in certain cases, to petition for an election. However, when challenged by Representative Albert Thomas [D., Tex.] to go ahead and "do that job next week, and get it over with," Madden stalled.

"The question looms larger in public opinion and in editorial writings than it does in practical importance," Madden replied.

A. F. of L. Favors Change.

Employers desire the right to petition for an election in order to protect themselves from the ravages of jurisdictional strikes between the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L., involving no labor dispute in the sense of the employer-employé relationship.

The A. F. of L. wants to give employers this right, but it demands a more fundamental change in practice which the board has not offered to grant as a matter of administrative regulation. This is to compel the board to grant election petitions within 30 days.

Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.], author of a more far reaching series of amendments intended to establish some degree of mutuality between the rights, duties, and responsibilities of employers and employés, is even less impressed by the labor board's hints of administrative reform. Whether there is action at this session, Senator Burke insists, the Wagner act must be revised fundamentally.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: A Soft Answer

C. I. O. AUTO PICKETS AND RAIDERS STAGE NIGHT FIGHT; ONE SHOT

Detroit, Mich., May 30.—(AP)—One man was shot and several beaten in picket line fighting at one of the seven strike-bound plants of the Briggs Manufacturing Co. shortly before midnight last night.

Joseph Ferris, 31 year old, vice president of local 212 of the C. I. O. United Auto Workers' union, which called the strike eight days ago, was shot in the right thigh and leg. He said his assailant was a member of what he called the Homer Martin goon squad. Martin is the leader of a rival faction of the U. A. W.

A dozen or more automobiles drove up to one of the picketed Briggs plants and discharged their passengers. This group and the pickets began fighting. Police said baseball bats, blackjacks and fists were used.

EIGHT CHARGED WITH THEFT OF COPPER CABLE

Eight men were held by police last night for Felony court today after Maxwell street police had uncovered the theft of more than $5,000 worth of copper cable from the Commonwealth Edison company. The suspects are:

Isadore Starkman, 44 years old, 2658 Ainslie street, and Morris Zoelin, 53, of 3400 Grenshaw street, both junk dealers; Edwin Klosowski, 33, who runs a saloon at 3833 Chicago avenue, and James Lightfoot, his porter and barkeeper; Carmen Aligo, 30, of 3857 Fillmore street; William Baker, 34, of 4917 Augusta boulevard, and William Schacht, 33, of 9953 Prairie avenue, chauffeurs for the electric company, and a company dispatcher, William Leonardis, 38, of 909 South Sacramento avenue.

John Hickey and John Flaherty of Maxwell street traced the cable, they said, from the chauffeurs to Klosowski, in whose sheds part of it was broken up by Lightfoot, and then to the two junk dealers.

CCC ROWDIES DISPERSED BY SUBURB POLICE

Police were called from every north shore suburb from Evanston to Glencoe last night to break up a disturbance that started at a ball game between CCC enrollees and Glenview citizens. Scores of calls from passing motorists sent squads to the scene.

First to arrive were six squads from the Morton Grove county highway police, headed by Sergt. John Garrity. They said they found about twenty-five CCC enrollees, all of them colored, stopping cars along Skokie highway, pawing their occupants, breaking windows, and making threats. They broke up this group and sent the enrollees back to their barracks at Harms road in Glenview. Sergt. Garrity said the young rowdies appeared to have been drinking.

Squads which arrived from Evanston, Niles Center, Winnetka, Glencoe, Wilmette, Glenview, and Northbrook found most of the trouble at an end.

FORMER SLAVE, 108, DIES HERE IN SOUTH SIDE HOME

Mrs. Diana Davenport, who has been an inmate of a nursing home at 6642 Langley avenue for the last nine months, died last night at the reputed age of 108. She was a former slave and is said to have a son still living who was grown when Lincoln was elected President.

Mrs. Davenport's age was attested by Mary Flournoy, also colored, who operates the nursing home, and by a friend, Rosa Reese, 3231 Wabash avenue, with whom Mrs. Davenport lived until she was stricken with paralysis some time ago.

SUSPECT SHOT BY POLICEMAN DIES OF WOUND

Stanley Zwierzycki, 40 years old, who was shot last Thursday night by Policeman Harold J. Fuhry of the Brighton Park station, died last night in Bridewell hospital. According to the story Fuhry told police, he was off duty and was sitting in his car at 45th street and Kildare avenue when he saw a man crawling through the shrubbery toward him.

Fuhry said the man leveled a gun at him upon reaching the car, and that he fired in the belief the man was about to rob him.

Zwierzycki gave his address as 5544 South Oak Park avenue. Police said they never had taken a statement from him because he was too badly wounded to talk. Mrs. Zwierzycki, who has three sons, said her husband was employed as a welder and did not own a gun. The family had an income of $35 a week. She asserted she had not been permitted to talk to her husband or even gain admission to the Bridewell to see him after he was shot.

Sewer Worker Hurt When Another Falls on Him

Rock Island, Ill., May 30.—[Special.]—Emil Berg, 43 years old, was in a hospital today with a broken back suffered when a 250 pound workman fell twenty-two feet, striking Berg, who was working in a sewer trench, yesterday. M. C. Shanks, the second worker on the city's intercepting sewer project, was precipitated into the trench when a crane cable became entangled with a board on which he was standing.

FACULTY STUDIES FUTURE OF RUSH MEDICAL SCHOOL

Discuss U.C. Absorption Plan Tomorrow.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Members of the faculty of Rush Medical college are to decide tomorrow night at a special meeting in the Union League club what they would like their institution to be in the future. The faculty decision is to be placed later before the boards of the college and the Presbyterian hospital.

A special committee of professors has drawn up a report recommending that one of three definite proposals be accepted. They are: [1] Move the college and the hospital to the University of Chicago campus; [2] remain on the west side, affiliate with Northwestern university and continue training undergraduates, and [3] remain on the west side and develop a graduate program under the University of Chicago.

Alumni Oppose Absorption.

Many Rush alumni have opposed the absorption of the college by the University of Chicago, which holds title to the college building at 1758 Harrison street and its equipment. One alumnus said last night that the reason for this opposition is sentimental—the old timers don't like to lose their ties with an institution which has been in existence since 1837.

"Another source of opposition," he said, "is the way medicine is taught at Chicago. There the science of medicine is of first importance. At Rush and other colleges in the city the welfare of the patient comes first. The university method leads to clinics where the patient is just another experiment, where he is a guinea pig. The traditional schools like Rush develop doctors who have personal responsibility for their patients."

Committee Favors U. C. Move.

The special committee, headed by Dr. George E. Shambaugh Jr., outlined some of the history of the affiliation of Rush with the University of Chicago. In 1916 officials of the two institutions agreed that Rush should become a graduate school and that its undergraduate work would be carried on at the university. In 1924 the university took over the Rush properties after a friendly court action, and its board of trustees voted approval of consolidation of the two institutions.

If the first plan, favored by the special committee, is carried through a new Presbyterian hospital would be built on the Midway with a capacity of 400 beds. Rush college staffs the existing hospital on the west side and the plan would continue that arrangement should the new hospital be erected.

The committee report stated that Northwestern university is interested in affiliating with the hospital only in the event it severs its connection with the University of Chicago.

SACRED JEWISH BOOKS BURIED IN CEMETERY RITES

Orthodox Jewish reverence for records of divine revelation and accumulated wisdom and traditions of the ages was dramatized yesterday at Anshe Knesses cemetery, Roosevelt road and Des Plaines avenue, when worn books and torn leaves of sacred literature were buried.

Under orthodox tradition, sacred books used by rabbis and rabbinical students must never be destroyed. It is the ceremony of the G'nizah of Sheimels. In yesterday's G'nizah, books and torn leaves used for the last sixteen years in the training of rabbis at Hebrew Theological college, 3448 Douglas boulevard, were given the sacred and colorful burial honors.

A cortège formed at noon at the college, which is the sole orthodox seminary in the central west, and moved toward the burial ground in Waldheim general cemetery. The rites were performed there by members of the college faculty.

SUPPORT OF G.O.P. IN JUDICIAL RACE URGED BY GREEN

Vote Appeal Cites Need for Free Courts.

Dwight H. Green, Republican nominee in the April mayoral election, last night urged support of the Republican judicial ticket in the Cook county election Monday.

"On this day, when we pay homage to our dead," he said in a radio address, "it is appropriate for us to dedicate ourselves to the living and to those who will follow. It is fitting that today we dedicate ourselves to the principles upon which our government and the Republican party were founded.

"The Republicans are carrying on a great fight throughout the nation. We will win in 1940 and we are now building toward that victory.

Tells Needs of Free Judiciary.

"The judicial election provides another opportunity to show our strength. A victory for the Republican ticket will insure free and independent judges and will constitute another forward step in our determined drive to bring honest government to the nation."

Green urged voters not to underestimate the importance of the judicial contest.

"The need for an independent judiciary is greater at the present time than it has ever been," he said. "We want judges who take orders from no machine. We want judges of integrity who believe in the American principle that all men are entitled to equal consideration in this great republic.

"Men of that type are available. Many of them have come forward as leaders of the Republican party.

United States Crisis Cited.

"They have come forward at this time because they know our country faces a crisis.

"They are men of honesty, learning, integrity, sincerity, and character. They despise machine rule, one man rule, or monopoly rule, and are determined to adhere to the fundamental principle of dispensing justice with fairness and impartiality to all."

Green said that he has been speaking recently to large audiences in downstate Illinois and that everywhere he has found a swing toward Republicanism.

EXPECT SENATE TO VOTE CHICAGO SUPERHIGHWAYS

Chicago's superhighway program and the plan for large scale construction of secondary roads downstate are expected to be called for passage this week in the state senate, which reconvenes today. Last week reductions of $10,000,000 each were made in the amounts proposed for the two programs, leaving $80,000,000 in the bills for Chicago and $30,000,000 for downstate highways.

Harold G. Ward, Mayor Kelley's legislative spokesman and majority leader in the senate, said yesterday that he is positive the measures will be passed.

REMOVE NAMES OF 157,790 FROM BALLOTING LISTS

Names of 157,790 persons have been erased from the Chicago registration lists, the city election commissioners announced yesterday. The total qualified for the judicial election Monday is 1,649,571.

This decrease from the total registration of 1,801,130 for the mayoral election less than two months ago was considered substantiation of the charges that lack of canvassing under the permanent registration system permits many "dead" names to remain on the poll lists. A special canvass recently caused the issuance of 207,527 suspect notices. Only 49,737 of those persons answered the challenge and established their voting qualifications.

The largest number of erasures was made in the 2d ward, where 8,403 names were taken off the eligible list.

COERCION IN THE PLANNED SOCIETY.

The Roosevelt-Berle-Tugwell managed economy, governmental financing and planned society, is as much the enemy of representative democracy here as it is everywhere else in the world. If Hitler did not exist German National Socialism would produce him. Mr. Roosevelt is rebuilding his administration with men who plan that the government should take over the business of the country. When the senate would not allow him to put the government ownership man, Mr. Amlie, on the interstate commerce commission, a place was found for him in the department of justice. The purposes for which the administration is seeking new men is plain and the persistence in these purposes is notable.

The planners do not deny that when they begin financing business they will begin also to take it over. The commissar will supplant the private owner and manager. The employés will have a new boss, a man appointed by an official whom the employés as voters have elected. Their pay will be in a political envelope. They will either bust the government business or the government will bust them politically. If the government has sufficient force it will destroy the political system. If it hasn't it will be destroyed.

The managed economy cannot succeed by purchasing political support. The New Deal is going broke trying that on a limited scale. The other procedure is by coercion. The government, having conscripted money, then conscripts men. It takes away all but a mockery of their suffrage rights. Then they do what they are told to do. Only one political party is permitted and that is of restricted membership, consisting actually of agents of repression.

Lenin learned what he had to do and the other dictators have profited from his experience and example. The bolshevists did not instantly suppress freedom of opinion and expression. They permitted other parties to exist and act. There were opposition newspapers and anti-bolshevist leaders in the councils of state. The inevitable logic of the situation would have asserted itself even if the bolos had been tender-minded men. They were not. The progression from Lenin, before the shooting started, to Stalin, who uses terror as an instrument of government, was inevitable. That is managed economy. It is the planned society. It is absolute autocracy and must be or it could not exist.

It is not to be supposed that all of Mr. Roosevelt's revolutionaries are dreamy eyed half-wits, but they are presenting their scheme to the country as if it could be absorbed into a democratic system and preserve all the liberties. They'd have trouble in finding an illustration for their idea. But that is the big idea for the third term.

THE JUDICIAL ELECTION.

Political partisanship, including the operations of political party machinery, has no proper place in the selection of an independent and capable judiciary. The independence of a judge is impaired to the extent that he is obligated to a party organization for his office. His active participation in the affairs of that organization is frequently held sufficient in itself to disqualify him for judicial office.

Under present statutes the names of judicial candidates appear on the ballot under party designations, although by segregating judicial from general elections lawmakers have made a substantial gesture in the direction of nonpartisanship. It is probable that judicial caliber would be improved by the removal of the party label. It certainly would not be lowered. But the fact that the party label will appear in the June 5 election is no reason why conscientious voters should pay any attention to it.

Judicial independence is best fostered by keeping in office judges whose conduct has given no cause for impeachment or removal. Therefore all voters should support those sitting judges who have been indorsed by the members of the Chicago Bar association.

While we think that sitting judges should generally have preference over other candidates, THE TRIBUNE will indicate those nonsitting candidates indorsed by the bar association for the information of voters. Where sitting judges are not involved, in the vacancy contests for the Superior court, we indorse the selections of the bar association.

Only harm can result if voters next week pay heed to party labels. Their object should be not to elect Republican or Democratic judges, but good judges regardless of party.

REPUBLICAN ECONOMY.

Ten of the Republican state administrations elected last fall have already succeeded in reducing expenditures by an aggregate of 50 million dollars for each of the next two years. The Republicans were elected because they promised more economical government than the Democrats had been giving and the 100 millions already saved prove that the promise was not a vain one.

The record is an impressive one. In 1936 the Democrats insisted that their opponents were saying a lot about economy but would do nothing about it if elected. This was at best a desperate defense of a conscienceless spending program, but even that defense can no longer be made. The nation now has proof that the Republicans mean exactly what they say. More than that, the Republicans are showing today in ten states that government expenses can be cut without hampering any essential government services, including the services of relief.

There is a Democratic governor of New York, but the Republican legislature refused to accept his budget recommendations, cut them by 24 million dollars, and presented the state with its first balanced budget in many years. The Republican régime in Ohio, under the leadership of Gov. John Bricker, reduced expenditures by 13 million dollars for the biennium. Despite higher appropriations for education and welfare, the administration of Gov. George Wilson in Iowa is saving the taxpayers more than a million dollars a year. Gov. Arthur James in Pennsylvania has had to include in his budget a deficit of 42 million dollars incurred by his Democratic predecessors and has managed to trim biennial expenses almost 100 million dollars below the last Democratic appropriations.

In Illinois the Republicans have a nominal majority in only one house, but with this limited influence have managed to restrain the spenders and may yet, it is to be hoped, achieve more positive results.

The Republican state administrations are giving the country proof that platform promises can be kept. It is always easy for men in public office to appropriate and always hard to economize. The Republicans have shown that they can and will economize if given the opportunity.

THE PAROLE REFORM BILL.

The Ward-Schnackenberg bill to reform the Illinois parole system is now in the passage stage in the lower house of the legislature, having previously been approved by the senate. Those who vote for it will be voting to protect men against murder and women against rape.

Parole reform is not a partisan question. Parole scandals have arisen under both Republican and Democratic state administrations. The wide powers to free criminals vested in a politically appointed parole board have been regularly abused in the past and will continue to be abused as long as they exist.

The Ward-Schnackenberg bill will restrict those powers, based on the indeterminate sentence act that fixes sentences with a minimum of one year and maximums of ten or twenty years or life for most felonies other than murder and rape. The bill empowers the trial judge to fix a minimum and a maximum sentence within the limits of the present indeterminate sentence act.

It is not expected that the provisions of this bill will operate always to increase the severity of sentence. At present a repeated offender with political influence may get a parole after serving the one year minimum. A first offender without influence may serve the maximum.

Much of the unrest in Illinois prisons arises from the uncertainty in the minds of convicts as to the time they must serve and their resentment at the injustices that arise under the present parole system. Under the provisions of the Ward-Schnackenberg bill the trial judge, with the details of the crime fresh in his mind and the offender's previous record before him, would fix the period of imprisonment and the offender would know what he faced when he entered prison.

The bill is designed to put political parole brokers out of business. It is not designed to end the institution of parole. After the offender has served the minimum sentence imposed by the judge he will be eligible to release by the parole board and subject to parole supervision during the maximum period of the sentence.

COTTONSEED PROBLEM.

[Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.]

A hopeful plan for the future of cottonseed has been advanced by Dr. Henry G. Knight of the United States department of agriculture. Speaking at the annual meeting of the National Cottonseed Products association in New Orleans, Dr. Knight stated that the oil yield of cottonseed could be increased 20 per cent through plant breeding. This increase, he further stated, could be gained without affecting either the amount or the quality of the lint. The plan offered by Dr. Knight and other research activities aimed at the production of more and better cottonseed will be taken up by the new government research laboratory at New Orleans, it was stated at the meeting.

That progress is being made in the solution of the problems of cottonseed is encouraging. It also calls attention to the fact that there is an ugly duckling aspect to the cottonseed problem. For, a little more than fifty years ago, the problem was the reverse of today's. The difficulty then was how to dispose of the seeds of the cotton plant. Then the "worthless" seeds were as hard to get rid of as a boresome guest who lingers too long. There were legal obstacles to disposal, laws prohibiting dumping of seeds near the gins and laws against dumping the troublesome stuff into the nearest river.

Now the ugly duckling is a beautiful economic swan, for about half of the cotton planter's income comes from seed. This has been due principally to its value in the making of margarine, salad oils, and shortenings. The tremendous amount of cottonseed used in manufacturing these days is disclosed in the fact that this country last year imported 83,000,000 pounds of cottonseed oil, in spite of an 11,500,000 bale cotton lint surplus. In addition to cottonseed oil imported, there were also great amounts of other vegetable oils brought into the country.

The importance of cottonseed today is obvious.

BALD BARBERS SELL TONIC.

[Clarion-Ledger, Jackson, Miss.]

Out in Nebraska a sympathetic jury accepts a plea by a barber that shock from an automobile accident caused his hair to fall out in patches so that old customers no longer had confidence in him and his business was ruined. The jury awards him $5,000 damages against the driver of the car.

Far be it from us to criticize a jury action so distant and of no concern to us. But it puzzles us.

It would seem, by cold logic, that bald patches on his cranium would be a professional and business handicap for a barber, cramping his style as a salesman of hair tonic, undermining confidence among his patrons in his skill in restoring lost hair.

That would seem to be logic, and apparently it influenced this jury. But actual facts in many cases are to the contrary. It could be proved in almost any barber shop, including Jackson's, that bald and partially bald barbers do very well, thank you, and have little trouble in prescribing and selling hair tonic.

Don't ask us to explain it. Perhaps it is a combination of personality and salesmanship. Perhaps it is just additional proof of clinging and enduring hope which opens the ears to rosy promises and reassurances while closing the eyes to all contradictory evidence.

FOOTNOTES TO A BOX SCORE.

Meditations of a columnist while making his 1939 debut [delayed because of cold weather] at Wrigley field:

Why do the Cubs begin their Saturday games at two o'clock instead of three? . . . Here comes Bill Boyden, two innings late and biting his fingernails from vexation. . . . Some fans say it's because Mr. Wrigley wants to see the game and also get to Lake Geneva in time for an early dinner.

* * *

Why does the management refuse to sell box seats on the upper deck except on Sundays? . . . That's our favorite location; the panoramic view is magnificent, and nobody's hat gets in your line of vision, as in the lower boxes. . . . Maybe the customers don't like the climb; maybe they want to be close to the field and get brained by a foul line drive.

The championship pennant is a fine job of flag designing this year, but the fans sneer at it because it doesn't mean a "world's" championship. Why not abolish the "world's" series? It's the great October bore that keeps lively football dope out of the sports pages.

* * *

Only one of the fancy little trees on the steps of the pyramid under the scoreboard has survived the winter. Too bad, but no wonder. The earth in the pots was bound to freeze as hard as granite. Mr. Wrigley will have to replant every spring, we fancy. . . . But the ivy on the outfield walls is doing fine. The old ball yard begins to look quite collegiate.

So this new pitcher's name is HarRELL, according to the announcer! Then there's GaLAN and BarTELL. Quite a Frenchy gang, it seems. Why not HartNETT, too? . . . Maybe they all live on DeVON avenue.

SONNET TO CARLOTTA.

How sad, dear girl, to part at this long last,
To put behind us all those sunny days,
Forsaking the sweet highways of the past
Forevermore, for perilous new ways.

I loved your quick response, your tilted nose,
Your bright complexion and your faultless carriage;
I loved you more than you may now suppose—
Forgive me if I never thought of marriage!

Full many miles inseparable we went;
No man had fairer comrade for his travel,
But now at length the fires of love are spent:
Thus do the tangled skeins of fate unravel!

You squander gas; your engine has catarrh:
I've turned you in and bought another car.

Warning to Mugs Who Murder Trees.

Hurrah for the Line! You declare for the preservation of trees [May 25], mentioning the "peasant" idea about poplar trees being "dirty." Another fallacious idea about the beautifully glistening, shiny eyed poplar trees is that their roots tangle with sewers, obstruct them and break them. The fanatics never seem to dig up the roots to prove their theory.

We, too, have heard some people mention the glorious catalpa tree as "dirty." Why not so designate maples, ash, oaks, hickory, and others? They all drop catkins, some fluffy greenery, or other pretty stuff, small blossoms or leaves. Why not cut them all down? Another thing—they all drop their leaves in the autumn; they are all "dirty" by the same token! Let's have them all down!

Say some more good words to keep the depredationists from cutting down more and more trees, on any flimsy pretext. Street after street of shade trees have been wrecked.

Chant of a columnist planning a vacation:

QUEEN AND QUINTUPLETS.

Five little subjects
Of mischievous mien,
Dressed in their best frocks,
Went to meet the queen.

Five little five-year-olds—
Nobody knew,
In the august presence,
What they would do.

Good Doc Dafoe
Trembled for fear they might Put on a show.

They curtsied daintily,
Gracefully knelt,
Then, of a sudden,
Acted as they felt.

Five little girls they were,
The queen a woman:
Barriers fell away,
All were just human.

Such loving homage
As the five kisses
Proffered to royal lips
By those five misses

In fairest knighthood days
Never was seen—
That's how the quintuplets

WHEN DIABETES STRIKES.

IN the management of diabetes the victim holds the center of the stage; the spotlight is focused upon him as the leading actor in the play. Second in importance is the physician—who should be sufficiently skilled and intelligent to guide his patient through a long and useful existence. Merely to plan the dietary and insulin treatment is far from adequate. Even though the sufferer is kept sugar free at all times we must recall that he is still subject to other ailments. In fact, minor upsets with him may become of great significance. For this reason constant vigilance will be required if he is to keep well and live in comfort.

As soon as the disease is discovered the individual will need special lessons in general hygiene. He must be far more careful than has been thought necessary hitherto. Scrupulous cleanliness of the skin is essential and every protective device against injury must be adopted.

When it comes to diet he is admonished to adhere to the prescribed régime accurately, to chew his edibles thoroughly, and to eat slowly. If his meals are poorly assimilated the calculation of the insulin dosage may have to be revamped. If too strict a menu is followed weakness may ensue. With many it is far wiser to adjust the food intake gradually so that freedom from sugar in the urine will be achieved without bold starvation. Such a procedure will avert many a catastrophe and maintain strength.

Whenever the affliction strikes, some of the first questions are: "How much can I do? What exercise may I take?" He should be told that any unusual physical effort may so lower the level of glucose in the blood that a typical insulin shock may come on. Nevertheless considerable activity is highly desirable—all of which means that the program must be fitted into after-eating periods so that all danger will be eliminated. In other words, the daily schedule must be reorganized completely in the light of this chronic malady and strains so spaced between food, insulin, rest, and sleep that they will be withstood as perfectly as though he were normal. Emotional disturbances should be guarded against.

Above all, infection must be shunned as one would flee a pestilence. The toilet of the mouth must be stressed, as many organisms gain entrance to the system via this avenue. Vigorous brushing of the teeth is never wise. Gentleness in all maneuvers having to do with the tongue, gums, and chewing apparatus is the rule. In addition the nose must receive some attention and mild irrigating solutions, such as normal salt or an alkaline wash, will be helpful.

If every one understood the hazard I am sure no friend or relative would insist upon the diabetic exposing himself needlessly even to the common cold. Influenza, particularly—as well as any depleting illness—will go far harder with any of these persons than with those in ordinary health. If pus is present steps must be taken to rout out the responsible nests of bacteria. The removal of tonsils and the extraction of teeth—if they are badly diseased—is far safer than to run the risk of a severe complication later on.

Too great emphasis cannot be laid upon the care of the extremities. We must realize that we are dealing with blood vessels that have been impaired. Anything, therefore, that lowers the resistance of the cuticle may permit germs to grow. A new pair of shoes should be broken in gradually—not worn for more than an hour or two each day. Even socks demand attention, as all seams and darns which are not smooth may give rise to enough pressure to damage the epidermis.

Finally, hot water bottles and electric heating pads should be employed with the greatest circumspection, as even a slight burn may pave the way for the development of gangrene. Boils and carbuncles fall in the same category.

As to the disease itself, every patient can be taught to test his own urine and to determine the amount of sugar. Several visits to the doctor's office may be necessary before all the instructions can be mastered. In teaching the "rules of the game" the medical man must not bewilder his caller with technical terms; a mass of do's and don'ts that will give neither time nor opportunity for living.

SYMPTOMS OF MUMPS.

W. C. writes: What are the symptoms of mumps?

REPLY.

Slight pain and stiffness in the jaw with some fever; a marked disinclination to eat because opening and closing the mouth causes discomfort. Severe cases will exhibit headache, vomiting, and chilly sensations which may last from a few hours to a few days. Then comes bulging on one side of the face in front of the ear. Now and then the swelling will move upward, causing the eyelid to puff. Within a week the tissues usually return to normal. If the opposite side is affected later the same cycle of events will ensue.

"STITCH" IN THE SIDE.

I. D. writes: What causes a "stitch" in the side when I run? I am 17 years old and in good health.

REPLY.

Lack of oxygen, although many conditions have been blamed. One authority studied fifty-six children so afflicted and found that in every instance the vital capacity of the lungs was below average. In order to increase the amount of air into and out of the lungs obstructions to breathing were relieved, posture was corrected, and both breathing and physique improving exercises were prescribed.

IN MEMORIAM—SPANISH SAILORS.

Chicago, May 26.—Scene: The naval engagement off Santiago de Cuba, July 3, 1898. No casualties aboard ships manned by American sailors. No graves to decorate with flags and wreaths. But hundreds of comrade sailors on enemy ships paid the great price. I am thinking of these as comrades.

Sailors of all lands know what the sea means. The wind—the roll and pitch of ship. Then, shipmates, the great calm of night under moon and stars. TAPS! The deck is covered by stalwart forms rocked gently to sleep. There is no war in the heart or mind of men whose eyes close under the brilliant canopy of a tropical night at sea. A clean deck, a clean body, and a healthy mind. I salute all sailors—the living and the dead. But this Memorial day my thought is dedicated to my Spanish comrades of the sea who fell in the Spanish-American war—forty-one years ago.

BASIC ENGLISH.

Washington, D. C. [Library of Congress], May 20.—Your lucid article on basic English [May 14] contains two errors. These are so frequently made in discussions of basic English that perhaps you will find a brief comment on them of interest. Unless he knows what is going on when a phrase like "take up" is used, even the editor has the same difficulty as a beginner. Taken out of context, it may mean one or more of the things you suggested, but even you are unable to tell what it in fact does mean unless the context gives you a clew as to what was taken up, when, where, why, by whom, for what purpose and the like. The thing taken [in the primary sense of "gain possession"] may be an object [book], an idea [the point just made], a fiction ["take care of John"], an attitude [fright] . . . the list is long. But we will only know what is taken when we have a knowledge of the situation in which it is taken. The principle is that words derive meaning from their contexts.

The second error is that the importance of metaphor in language is overlooked. If the central or primary sense of "take" is to take or gain possession of an object, we may use the phrase "take the book" as an example. But by metaphorical expansion and specialization we may take a view, a look, an example.

Teachers of basic English in China, Russia, India and elsewhere are, of course, aware of these principles and their students, trained accordingly, gain not only a quick command of English and its idioms—many of them metaphors—but by application of these principles to problems in their own language and in the languages of science find their progress accelerated. Only in the most specialized of sciences is one word a sign for one single thing. In general communication primary meanings are nuclear, expanded by context and expounded by metaphors.

That at times unscrupulous writers so arrange the linguistic context that it gives the wrong part of a nucleus and, having presented a metaphor, refer to it later as a fact, is so well understood by political editorialists as to require no further discussion. It is not necessary to memorize the thirty-five additional polysemantic phrases [also presumably unknown] for the word "take," obviously an endless undertaking. Knowledge of the "simple" or nuclear sense of "take" and "up," together with illustration of how these words in their contexts by specialization and expansion, by metaphor and fiction convey meanings, has, as you know, frequently been an aid to those deplorable writers who use language to disguise thought.

THE WORKINGMAN'S PLIGHT.

Chicago, May 23.—If the business man deserves sympathy in his steadily losing struggle with the unions, at least he has a vestige of independence left. As for the workingman, he does not even have this modicum. Elections in the unions are such farces that by comparison the elections in the dictatorships are marvels of free choice.

But it is not the tyranny of labor leadership, nor even the oppressive financial burden that is most offensive to the workingman's enjoyment of liberty, but their limitations of membership. Any one with sufficient capital and enterprise can go into almost any business he chooses. But not so the workingman. The unions control the jobs and also the membership in their ranks. A man may have more ability at his trade than another who belongs to the union, but he is unable to take the job because it is a union job and is unable to join the union because the membership is closed. Meanwhile some incompetent who has curried the labor leader's favor gets the job. Neither in darkest Africa nor in reddest Russia does such a condition maintain wherein a man is prevented from taking employment when the opportunity presents itself and he is capable of it.

ALL ABOUT SAMMONS LANDING.

Chicago, May 25.—I notice in "Voice of the People" that the location of Sammons Landing on the east shore of Lake Michigan is lost to a reader, Swift Lathers.

Little Point au Sable is located about twelve miles southwest of Pentwater and is the westernmost extremity of the lower peninsula of Michigan. On that point the lighthouse, approximately 128 feet in height, keeps vessels off the point and off the sand bars which extend into Lake Michigan there for a considerable distance. Sammons Landing is located about one and one-half miles south of the point and about one mile north of a line drawn straight west from Shelby.

During the '90s the one house there was occupied by a family named Newman, three of whose children, I remember, were named Will, Cal, and Eunice. About 1895 the government built a pier at Sammons Landing so that fruit growers in that vicinity could ship by water. During that year and one or two years after the steamer Ira L. Hackley made daily trips to the point during fruit season.

The pier lasted only two or three years. It was destroyed by ice and heavy seas. During the last few years a number of fine summer residences and a beautiful stone church have been constructed there. Religious assemblies are held there frequently during each summer.

PUTTING THE PAY IN TAXPAYER.

Chicago, May 25.—In traveling among the fields of the Illinois farms I see some land out of production and I hear that while last year many farmers refused the government plan to be paid for nonproduction, this year practically all the farmers have joined up. They say, "The other fellow is getting it, so why not I?"

In many instances they are getting more for nonproduction than if they worked hard and produced the regular crop.

The farmer now is being told what to do and what not to do. And it is all this that has put the PAY in taxpayer!

THE OLD ORDER CHANGETH

[Kladderadatsch, Berlin.]

Two old folks: "We cannot understand the world these days."

DENY MOSQUITO ERADICATION WILL INJURE WILD LIFE

Tri-County War to Spare All Game Havens.

Wild life in the tri-county area of Lake, Du Page and Cook counties will be aided, rather than injured, by the fight on mosquitoes now being conducted by the Tri-County Mosquito Abatement committee. J. Lyell Clarke, sanitary engineer of the Des Plaines Valley Mosquito Abatement district and one of the experts aiding the Tri-County committee, made this statement yesterday. Fears of some conservationists that drainage of swamp areas will ruin wild life development are groundless, he asserted.

Clarke said marshes fall naturally into three classifications:

1. Permanent marshes, which hold water at all times.
2. Intermittent marches, which are periodically wet and dry.
3. Temporary marshes, which are really wet weather pools that hold water for periods of only a few days.

Once Drained All Marshes.

"When we first started mosquito control work we made no distinction; we drained all marshes," Clarke said. "Since that time we have found that permanent marshes and intermittent marshes need not be drained.

"We have learned that it is cheaper to aid and encourage the aquatic enemies of the mosquito in a permanent pond than it is to drain the pond. We have learned, too, that an intermittent marsh may be converted into a wildlife oasis, thus bringing about a natural biological balance which will largely exclude the mosquito."

Breed in Intermittent Areas.

The tri-county committee is now concentrating on the eradication of flood water mosquietos [ædes vexans]. They are the major mosquito nuisance in the Chicago area and, Clarke said, are known to transmit sleeping sickness from horses to human beings. A permanent pond or marsh, he explained, does not serve as the breeding area for the flood water mosquito, as this type lays its eggs on dry land.

"We have learned it is unnecessary to drain permanent marshes," he said. "In the fight against the flood water mosquito we do not need to harm these havens of wild life.

"The intermittent marshes, however, are wet only in time of flood. They may be wet for a month and then dry, except for small pools, for another month. The dry areas may be covered with from ten to sixty million mosquito eggs per acre. When the eggs are covered with warm water they hatch immediately, and within a period of seven days great clouds of mosquitoes arise."

Permanent drainage of the intermittent marsh ruins it as a haven for wild life, Clarke asserted. His district has learned, he said, to dig a deep hole in the middle of the intermittent marsh and lead drainage ditches to this hole from low places in the marsh land.

"The deep hole offers a permanent haven for fish and is like an oasis to wild life in dry periods," Clarke said. "In this oasis during the dry months the top feeding minnow becomes so numerous that it literally crowds the pond with life. When the other parts of the marsh land are flooded during the summer rains the minnows follow the spreading waters and devour the newly hatched larvæ of the mosquitoes.

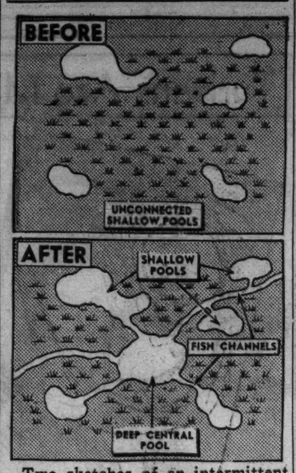
"As the marsh begins to dry off the water drains back to the central pool, instead of standing in small scattered pools which will not support fish. The minnows and larger fish retreat with the water to the deep hole to wait for another flood."

Subdivision Work Blamed.

Most temporary marshes are caused by subdividers putting sidewalks and roads across natural drainage lines, Clarke said. Since this is an artificially created mosquito breeding ground and has no relation to wild life, he continued, these pools must be drained within five days of a rain in order to prevent mosquito breeding.

"Drainage of this nature constitutes a large part of all of the drainage work done by our Des Plaines district," he said. "We remove the water a few days before it would normally dry up. Surely this practice does not in any way molest or injure wild life."

Make Fish Havens



Two sketches of an intermittent marsh, the kind which is a marsh in wet weather, then dries except for a few pools (upper drawing) in dry weather. Mosquito eggs hatch as the intermittent marsh dries out. Abatement engineers dig a deep pool in such a marsh (lower drawing), where fish can live through dry spells and eat the mosquito larvae in wet weather. The shallow pools are drained into the deeper pond by channels through which fish may move.

POISONS HER FIVE CHILDREN, CUTS SELF; ONE DEAD

Clinton, Okla., May 30.—(AP)—Jerry Watson, 6 years old, died of poisoning in a hospital today and Sherif Everett Stambaugh said the boy's mother, Mrs. Ida Watson, 34, had given him and her four other children poison capsules and then slashed her throat. The other four, Marie, 16; Bobbie, 14; David, 12, and Joe, 9, were reported improving after emergency treatment. The mother was recovering.

The sherif said he found an unsigned, unaddressed note in the cabin which said, "You have your good time. I will take the children with me."

Police Chief J. R. Greer, quoted the father of the family, Duke Watson, unemployed oil worker, as saying he knew of no reason for his wife's act. Watson left the family shortly after noon to attend a baseball game.

Police Chase Bus and Seize Accused Robber in $60 Theft

One passenger on a bus from Peoria failed to reach his destination in downtown Chicago yesterday. He is Fred Weaver, colored, 31 years old. At 1 p. m. Oak Park police were informed that Weaver was charged with stealing $60 from his employer in Peoria. Detectives Robert Bickel and Lambert Barsema pursued the bus into Chicago and seized Weaver at Washington boulevard and Central avenue. Weaver said he had stolen the money because he wanted to visit his mother in Chicago on Memorial day.

Career Woman Tells Another to Get Husband

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Disconcerted: I noticed your letter in Doris Blake's column in which you said that, as a successful career woman of 37, you regretted you never have married. Your sighs of inward loneliness pierced my soul, and out of the fullness of my heart I decided to pen this note to you.

"Being a career woman given over to intellectual pursuits all my life, I faced your identical problem a dozen years ago.

"I was popular enough. I was interesting company for the big boys eager to talk about themselves to an intelligent girl willing to listen by the hour and really understand how clever they were.

"That went on until I crept close to thirty. Then I woke up and said to myself: 'This will never do. I have everything I want, except what I want most—a baby. Now, unless I am stupid, I must take this hurdle exactly as I have hurdled all other obstacles in life.'

"Shortly thereafter I stepped out of my charming and exclusive hotel apartment, which had been my long-time abode, into a delightful new home of my own with a brand new young husband, good looking, intelligent, and well able to provide for me and the baby I desired so much.

"After a few years as housewife the untimely death of my beloved husband turned me once more into a career woman, this time to battle for three heads instead of one. It sounds like a big order, but it's not too hard, considering the love and devotion I get from my little ones. V. S."

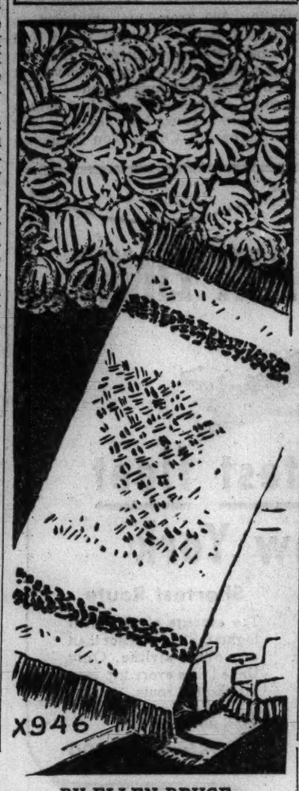
"Crazy" Stitch Is Not Silly, for It Makes Pretty Rug



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Crazy stitches are not as silly as the name would imply, and they are not difficult to accomplish. The crocheted rug done in one of the many varieties of the stitch creates one of the most attractive and durable pieces of floor covering. With carpet warp used double, bands of black and white may be used for a border, with the center panel of the rug worked in a combination of black and white. These rugs are ideal for any room in the house, and may be made in any color scheme.

Summer Bags AreBright Spots of New Season

Summer bags have sprung up like mushrooms all over the town and new supplies arrive daily. None of them is priced higher than $5 and the $3 collections will well nigh stun the most blasé shopper.

New pillow bags—aptly named because they are the size of a small boudoir cushion—are priced around $3. The covers are of homespun cotton in a grand assortment of colors—dull white, natural, raspberry, pale pink, blue, and yellow. These finds look like a much higher price mark. Big, chunky, gold metal balls make the clasp. Lined with pique in a harmonizing color, they're the best buys of the season.

White dotted silk bags, with snappy ascots to match, promise lots of dramatics for all white or dark summer sheers. Fire truck red and navy spattered with dime size dots assure a good contrast for all whites and almost every street shade.

Dress parade bags—usually so hard to locate—arrived early this summer. The materials are most effective—crêpes, dull taffetas, and handsome failles and bengalines. These come in moderate sizes and go perfectly with filmy sheers in black or navy. Quilted designs with decorative stitching in black, tiny self ruffles and shell patterns in fluted bands make them perfect accents for afternoon costumes, cocktail clothes, and sophisticated dinner dresses. Envelopes still hold the sales records for popularity and sleek satin linings are among the best buys.

Big discs of semi-rough sun scorched straw, trimmed with gay green, black, or navy grosgrain ribbon, make up a slick summer showing of bags to carry with summer cottons. Colored linens are triumphantly gaudy, with stripes, plaids, and horse blanket sized plaids and checks [all these with pale brown wooden or bamboo clasps and frames] assure the shoppers an almost limitless assortment from which to choose—all tagged with mercifully low price-marks. Size, shape, and capacity, color and strong contrast are just as endless in variety.

Fashion photograph—Spick and span and spotless as a navy uniform is this successful summertime street dress of pique. It is tailored and smooth of streamline. Pointed lapels, short sleeves, and a row of shining gold metal buttons are fashion details. Tagged with a modest price mark, it's the week's find for career girls.

In White Pique

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

The summer daytime dress of spanking white pique is cut in the becoming reefer coat streamline. Down the front is a glittering row of bright gold metal buttons. Short sleeves, notched lapels, and collar complete the sleek tailored details. White, black or brilliantly colored costume accessories provide the properly effective dramatics.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

With Chicagoans going completely mad over the fine old custom of getting away for the week-end more and more people are on the hunt for attractive "bread and butter" gifts to send to their country hostesses.

When we have the problem we usually think of fine soaps. Personally we adore them—and if we ran a house that frequently was filled with guests we'd feel as though we could never get enough of them. Fine soap is one luxurious gift that has the distinct advantage of being wonderfully practical, too.

Consider, for instance, the lovely little trio of soap cakes, scented with gardenia or rose geranium, each cake in the cunning shape of a drum. It makes a perfectly swell gift—or possession.

The little drums of soap are carved beautifully, even down to the cord. Those in gardenia are ivory, those in rose geranium a soft rosy-pink. The perfume is lovely and delicate and you're comfortably aware of it each time you use the drum.

The soap is not only decorative—it's well made and bland enough to suit the most sensitive skinned. And it's awfully firm and surprisingly heavy. You'll be astonished at the weight of each cake. And you'll be tickled pink at the way this firm heaviness makes it last and last. Because of its unorthodox drum shape it never wears down to a useless sliver, but shapes down slowly to a handy, chunky piece.

If you like lovely soaps we know you'll like these. You'll like the fact that the box of three isn't very expensive, either.

Vegetarian meals are easy to plan and prepare in spring and summer when the markets are packed with crisp, fresh vegetables and whole sound fruits at enticing prices.

Cheese is a splendid addition to a meatless meal. It's been added to the potatoes in this vegetable and fruit dinner which may be prepared in 45 minutes or so.

SHORT CUT VEGETARIAN DINNER
Potatoes au Gratin
Sautéed Summer Squash
Corn on the Cob
New Peas in Cream
Bran-Raisin Muffins
Fruit Salad Dessert with Whipped Cream Mayonnaise
Chocolate Wafers
Coffee

Potatoes au Gratin
[Serves Four]
4 medium potatoes
1½ cups white sauce
Buttered crumbs
½ cup grated cheese

Boil potatoes in salted water. Slice or dice them if you want to shorten the cooking time. When they are tender, place them in a greased casserole and pour the hot, freshly made white sauce over them. Top with buttered crumbs and grated cheese. Place in hot oven long enough to brown the topping.

WHITE SAUCE: Blend 3 tablespoons butter and 3 tablespoons flour in a saucepan. Add gradually 1½ cups milk, cooking and stirring until smooth and thickened. Season with ½ teaspoon salt [more if needed] and a little pepper.

SAUTEED SUMMER SQUASH

Buy the white, scalloped patty pan or the yellow crookneck squash. If the squash is fresh it needn't be peeled. Cut into strips or slices and cook in butter in a covered pan until squash is tender. Season well with salt and pepper during cooking, and keep the heat moderate so that the squash does not scorch during cooking. Fifteen minutes should be time enough for cooking if the squash pieces are about ½ inch thick.

Bran-Raisin Muffins
[1 dozen]
2 tablespoons shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup sour milk or buttermilk
1 cup bran
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup raisins

Cream shortening and sugar, add beaten egg and sour milk. Add bran and allow it to soak up most of the moisture. Sift flour with dry ingredients and add. Add raisins. Stir only until dry mix has been moistened. The batter should be lumpy. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake at 400 degrees for about 20 minutes.

Sweet milk may be used. In that case, omit the soda and increase baking powder to 3 teaspoons.

FRUIT SALAD DESSERT

Any combination of fresh fruits may be used. Nuts or marshmallows may be added to the mixture, if desired. The dressing should consist of equal parts mayonnaise or cooked dressing and whipped cream.

Turbans Are Millinery "Tops"

WOMAN'S AND MISS' TURBANS.

Turbans of all shapes and types are tops in millinery this season. There is something about them that makes them ideal summer headgear, principally because they are so cool. They serve to complete an ensemble without causing any discomfort, and they're grand for keeping the coiffure in place while one is out where the breezes blow.

There are all kinds of ways to drape them to the headsize, and many kinds of materials make up well. With this pattern you can make a turban to match your every costume. Simply buy enough extra material when you purchase fabric for your frock, so that there is ample left over for the turban.

The sketch illustrates several of the ways you can drape the turban. It's easy to make and requires a minimum of material. The pattern is available in one headsize only, which you can adjust to fit your individual requirements.

Style No. 2822, if made with an open crown, requires ¾ yard of 39 inch material. One yard is necessary for the turban with twisted band, and 1½ yards for the one with streamers.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Americana Addition.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. George M. Silverthone Jr. is chairman of the committee planning a dinner-dance at the Onwentsia on Saturday, June 10, to raise funds for Allendale Farm, a 280-acre tract in Lake Villa where 100 boys live, work, and are educated. Lewis E. Myers is president of the Allendale association.

Many N. Shore Families Busy with Building

BY JUDITH CASS.

REMODELING is as fascinating as building—or more so—is the argument of the hundreds who are able to purchase old houses or barns and then with paint and vivid imaginations turn them into smart and comfortable homes.

Remodeling, however, is not in the plans of the John Payne Kelloggs, who have purchased land south of Libertyville, near the Alfred MacArthur and Paul Harper places. When the Kelloggs start to build in the near future it will be from the ground up.

Farther south, however, and a few miles west of Lake Forest, the John Grant Beadles proudly are supervising the last touches to a farmhouse they have been remodeling. The Beadles retained the old time outdoor dinner bell for true rustic flavor in their new country home.

Not far away, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Getz's large new place just is being completed. The Schuyler Coles plan to build in this territory some time soon.

John L. Kings Remodel Barn at Lake Forest.

The barn on the Lake Forest estate of the late Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw has been undergoing many changes during the last months. The John Lord Kings [Theodora Shaw] have been remodeling it. Their new home looks about finished, and is as smart as can be, painted bright red with white trimmings.

The Harry M. McLeods are planning to build on some property next door to the Lake Forest home of his aunt, Mrs. Harry M. McIntosh. The McLeods now live in a small house on Mrs. McIntosh's grounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip W. Moore Jr. [Henrietta Boal] are among the first of last season's brides and bridegrooms to start building a house. They are building at 824 Boal parkway, Winnetka, not far from the new home of Mrs. Moore's brother, Ayres Boal Jr., and Mrs. Boal. The Moores will continue to live in Chicago until their new home is ready next fall.

Mrs. Cornelia A. Keith is building a new home next door in Warwick road, Kenilworth, to the house she is occupying now.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Ross, who have been making their home in Winnetka with her mother, Mrs. Willoughby G. Walling, since their marriage last fall, have moved to Glencoe. They have leased a house in Jefferson street.

The Roderick McKenzies and their small daughter, Helen, have moved from Winnetka to 921 Greenwood avenue, Hubbard Woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bingham Jr., who have been living at the Whitehall since their marriage in California three months ago, are settling an apartment at 3642 Lake Shore drive.

Gordon Louds Will Return in Early June.

That the Gordon Louds, who are returning to Chicago about June 8 from Palestine, will be here until the middle of October seems assured. Mrs. Loud's name appears as one of the co-chairmen for the Chicago Junior league's open house to be held at the Drake hotel next Oct. 14.

Mrs. Loud, the former Honor Merrell, resigned as vice president of the league at the time of her marriage to Mr. Loud last November, when they went abroad. Mrs. Robert N. McKenna is chairman of the giant party, Mrs. Marshall G. Sampsell is the other co-chairman.

Mrs. William K. Kenly and her granddaughter, Mary Ann Wyman, have an interesting year in store for them. If conditions abroad are favorable they will sail for Europe in the fall and Mary Ann will spend the winter studying in France. Otherwise the two will have a long holiday in California and spend a few months traveling.

Mary Ann is being graduated from Miss Walker's school next month, but is too young either to enter college or to have a formal debut. Mrs. Kenly is at her summer home in Manchester, Vt., now.

Mrs. Ernst C. Von Ammon of Winnetka is giving a tea at her home today for the members of her ticket sales committee for the Ravinia festival.

Woman's Club Will Hold Fine Arts Meeting Today

The Chicago Woman's club today will give its annual fine arts breakfast for prize winning artists of the Chicago exhibition at the Art institute and for art patrons. The event will take place at noon at the clubhouse, 72 East 11th street. Mrs. Albion L. Headburg, art chairman and chairman of the distinguished guest committee, is in charge. Dr. Louis W. Sprague, composer-pianist, will give the President's day program afterward.

Lincoln's Town Turns Out for Film Premiere

Springfield, Ill., May 30.—[Special.]—Thousands of motion picture fans jammed the streets near the Fox-Lincoln theater tonight as Springfield enjoyed its first world première of a motion picture—presented with all the Hollywood trimmings.

The occasion was the première of a movie about Springfield's great citizen. The film was "Young Mr. Lincoln," starring Henry Fonda.

Appearing on a special program prior to the showing of the picture were five featured players from Hollywood, and Marian Anderson, famous Negro contralto. The Hollywood players present were Alice Brady, Arleen Whelan, Cesar Romero, Binnie Barnes, and Eddie Collins. Miss Anderson presented several vocal numbers, including a Negro spiritual.

The film audience included committees from each house of the legislature and prominent men and women from throughout the state. Gov. Horner, student of Lincoln and an ardent motion picture fan, was unable to attend because of his illness.

The movie depicts Lincoln's life during his young manhood in New Salem and Springfield. It portrays him seeking a small political office, his friendship with Ann Rutledge, his readjustment after her death, his decision to become a lawyer, and his early experiences while practicing law in Springfield.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Behind the Scenes.

Hollywood, Cal., May 30.—In those few countries where royal families still reign it is the custom to ring bells and shoot off cannon when an heir is born. . . . In Hollywood the birth of a picture that has cost a great deal of money or coconuts is celebrated by a preview designed and fashioned to direct the attention of the country toward it.

Once upon a time, and that not so long ago, the imagination of those who sponsored previews was limited to red plush carpets at the theater, an outdoor broadcast, and a grandstand in front of the theater in which thousands of fans could sit.

More recently the preview idea has undergone an overhauling, and at the preview of "Young Mr. Lincoln" Marion Anderson was paid some thousands of dollars to sing some of the songs which the Daughters of the American Revolution prevented her from singing in their auditorium. . . . 20th Century-Fox figured rightly that the engagement of the colored star at the preview of a picture extolling Lincoln was propaganda of the subtlest sort.

Earlier in the year we have had evidence that the preview formula was in process of alteration. . . . "Dodge City" and "Union Pacific" were previewed at Dodge City and Omaha respectively, with the residents of those areas growing beards for the occasion.

It is this reporter's personal opinion that despite all these carryings-on a poor picture can't be helped by a preview, even though it were held in Bangkok. . . . When a picture settles down to playing the run of theaters to which it has been rented, it will do business in exact proportion to its customer appeal.

The "Hardy Family" series left Hollywood without benefit of a preview, and it became one of the greatest money makers of them all. . . . The fans discovered the appeal of the picture and demanded more of them. . . . "Boys' Town" would have been a box office smash whether it had or didn't have the preview at Omaha. . . . Hollywood, in other words, should be more concerned with the making of a picture and less concerned with previews, because a picture's fate is determined in the studio and in the cutting room long before it reaches its first screening.

For a good many years Hollywood had a similar fixation which went by the name of "star system." . . . It was the movie makers' unique belief that the performers in a picture were more important than the picture, and that a picture relied for success upon the number of important names that could be lined up on a theater marquee. . . . That was the star system.

For a time the practice of loading a picture with stars did work, but no hypodermic needle is invented that won't leave scars, and a hypodermic wears off through repetition. . . . Today Hollywood agrees that no star or combination of stars can sell a poor picture.

What showmen never have been able to dope out is the faculty of the cash customers to "smell" a good picture, even if it hasn't been exploited. . . . It happens time and again. . . . A picture opens at a theater at 11 a. m. . . . And at 10 a. m. lines already have formed before the box office.

The fans can sense a good picture, or perhaps it would be better to say that the fans always know what they want and rush to buy it. . . . By the same token, no amount of persuasion or selling can get them into a theater to see a flicker which doesn't intrigue their imagination. . . . Theater managers are puzzled by many things, but they are puzzled most by the uncanny instinct of the customers.

And there is no delay in the decisions that are handed down by the movie fans, due to the fact that this business of selling movies is on a cash-and-carry basis. . . . Customers walk up to a box office and plunk down their dough, or they don't. . . . There are no ifs, ands, or buts.

The total admissions each night are an unfailing index of a picture's box office strength. Rarely, if ever, will a picture open weakly and then become a sensation later in the week.

The River Bend Feud

By William MacLeod Raine

(Copyright: 1939: By William MacLeod Raine.)

SYNOPSIS.

Jeff Hunter, an American mining engineer, awaits execution in a Mexican jail by order of Pancho Banderas, rebel leader. A peon friend helps him escape to Texas. Jeff meets Joan Raleigh, lost in the vastness of her feudal estate, and assists her home. He meets her brothers, Bill and Phil, and Phil's wife, Mary Lou. When they learn Jeff went to college with their cousin, Raeburn, he is invited to be their guest. An old feud against the Raleighs is being renewed under the leadership of Butler Lane, suspected of poisoning their aunt, his wife, and forging her will. Banderas, routed from Mexico, has joined Lane. Jeff offers to try to make peace with the better element, and with Jim Williams, starts for the ranch of Carl Nielsen. They are pursued and fired on by Banderas and his men, but manage to reach the Nielsen ranch. Banderas and his men appear. Jeff disarms them. Nielsen is shocked by the outlaws. The feud has prevented a romance between beautiful Olga Nielsen and Bill Raleigh. Next morning Nielsen leaves with Jeff for a conference with Phil Raleigh. Joan and Phil are missing—kidnaped in their own plane and made the prisoners of Banderas. Jeff, Jim Williams and Raeburn trail Lane Butler to the ranch of his ally, Rannigan. When Butler leaves Jeff forces Rannigan to lead them to the kidnaper's hideout. But Banderas has moved Joan and Phil into deeper hiding, after Phil had agreed to Butler's demands for fear of what might happen to Joan. Phil tries to buy their escape from Banderas. Jeff, Rae and Jim Williams kidnap Butler from his hotel and bring him to the ranch.

INSTALMENT XXXIX.

A KIDNAPED KIDNAPER.

"Lane outside?" Rae asked.

"Yes. Shall we have him in?"

"Might as well lay the law down to him now as later."

The telephone rang. Bill was on the line. He was at the Rannigan ranch. Rae talked with him.

"There's nobody here but a dead man. Know anything about who shot him?" Bill asked.

"Might have been any one of several people," Rae said noncommitally. "Lane and his crowd were out there. Don't worry about that. Have you picked up any information?"

It seemed he had not. His party had just reached the Rannigan place and was headed to visit two or three other doubtful ranches. He thought they would breakfast at the C N with the Nielsens.

Rae told him how they had cut into the brush with Rannigan, too late to be of any use, and of their later success in capturing Lane.

This drew a whoop from Bill, but he ended on a note of dissatisfaction. He had been doing all the routine work, accomplishing nothing.

"He's as grouchy as a bear with a sore paw," Rae told the two waiting for the news after he had hung up. "Can't blame him. Bill's rarin' to go, and he got stuck with posse work. Tough luck. He would certainly have liked to be with us."

"We're keeping Mr. Butler Lane waiting," Jeff reminded them. "Do you want to see him, Mary Lou? Or would you rather not?"

"I want to see him," she answered very decidedly.

Lane was brought into the room. His entrance was somewhat dimmed by the fact that his right wrist was manacled and he had to keep pace with Williams. This handicapped his grand duke manner.

To Mary Lou he bowed from the waist. "My dear niece, I am delighted to see you, in the home of our family, after so long an absence. In spirit I kiss your hand." Impudently he pressed fingers to his lips and wafted a salute toward her.

Rae said, coldly: "You may cut out the dramatics, Lane. If you don't know you're in a tough spot you're a bigger fool than I think you are."

"Not at all," he said raffishly. "In fact, a happy family reunion."

He raised his eyebrows. "Dear girl, am I my brother's keeper—or my nephew's?"

Old Jim said bluntly, "If you'd like for me to knock down this gorilla's ears just say so, Miz Raleigh."

Lane was as smug as the cat that had swallowed the cream. He gazed round the room blandly, as if noticing with surprise for the first time that the family circle was not complete, then referred Mary Lou's question to Rae.

To his surprise Rae told him where they were. "In the brush a dozen miles back of Rannigan's place, as you very well know, in the hands of that murderous scoundrel Pancho Banderas and a bunch of cutthroats hired by you. If you expect to get back to San Antonio alive you had better produce them as soon as possible."

"If I didn't know you, dear boy," Lane said with his thin glittering smile, "I'd think that was a threat."

Rae looked very steadily into the wary eyes of his enemy. "Not a threat but a promise," he said very gently. "A promise I'm making to myself and to all the other members of my family, with the memory of my murdered aunt in mind."

The shackled man shook his head regretfully. "Still cherishing the old delusion. It is not well to live with ghosts, my friend, with thoughts bearing no relation to reality. You will read in Freud——"

"We'll do the talking," Rae interrupted sharply. "You are here to answer questions. This is no time for foolery."

"Unless you have something more you wish to say to this man, Mrs. Raleigh, I think you had better leave him for us to handle," Jeff suggested. "From his attitude I judge it is going to be a painful business for him and one not pleasant to see."

While Jeff spoke Mary Lou had been watching Lane. In his eyes she had caught a reflection, swiftly banished, of the fear that shivered through him. She knew him a man audacious and cruel, bold in conception and in execution. Now she guessed his weakness. He was physically a coward. There was not in him the stark courage to go through to a fighting finish against the pressure of pain.

She shook her head. "I have nothing more to say." With that she walked out of the room.

Lane made a bluff at covering his dread. "Better to talk this over without her," he said lightly. "Women are emotional. Their reactions are too personal. Shall we arrange our peace pact over a scotch and soda, gentlemen?"

None of them answered. Rae was already leading the way out of the big house. He stopped to whisper some instructions to a Mexican boy.

"Thought we might be needing a horse whip," he explained aloud casually to Hunter.

The quick dark eyes of the prisoner darted at him. Lane knew that if he did not knuckle under he would have to endure a third degree that would be hard to take.

Nothing more was said until they were in the living room of the house where old Rex Raleigh and his wife had lived before he built the white mansion.

"I think we'll all get along better, gentlemen, if we are reasonable and fair minded," Lane said suavely, taking the initiative. "Of course you can't hold me here. By this time Trail End is aware of what has happened."

Rae brushed this aside. "I want to know where my cousins are," he told the captured man bluntly. "You can tell me now or wait until we've made a wreck of you. Take your choice."

"I don't know where they are."

"Don't lie to us," Rae flung at the shackled man, anger beginning to shake his cold composure. "We saw you take the trail from Rannigan's into the brush. We saw you again on your way back from the camp where you were holding the prisoners." He slammed a fist into the palm of his hand. "Get this right, you black hearted scut. You'd better get my cousins back safely to us, for if anything happens to either of them you'll never leave here alive."

Lane's darting glances found no help in any of these men's bleak faces. "How can I do that while you're holding me here a prisoner?" Lane asked, an edge of sarcasm in his voice. "If I sent a message my men wouldn't believe it was from me, and if they did they would know I wrote it under coercion."

"You won't send the message. You'll take it, and we'll be with you."

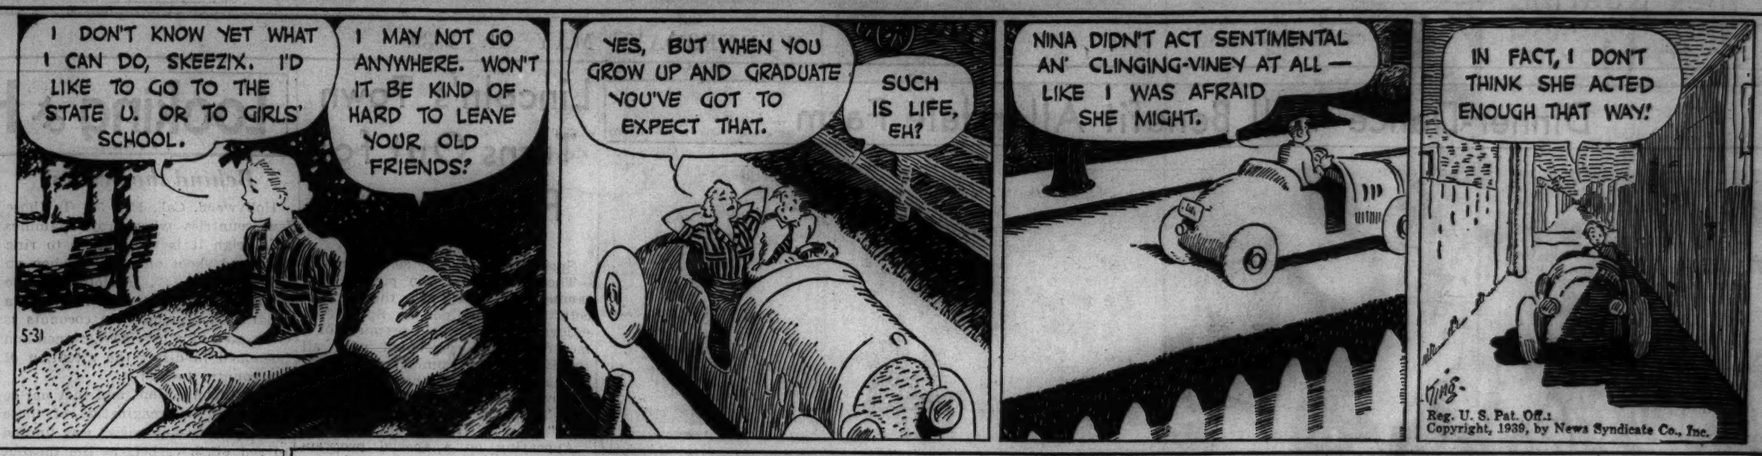
GASOLINE ALLEY—UNDERDONE



Deep Seated Nervousness Often Hidden

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Whenever I begin an article about anything in connection with children that would give a mother and father cause for concern I have two thoughts or wishes tucked away in the back of my mind. One is the wish that what I write may be of real assistance.

The other is the hope that what I write will not start certain conscientious parents imagining that their children have difficulties which they have not.

We who are parents want to be alert, but we must not torment ourselves by looking for trouble. So when, today and perhaps for a few more days, I talk about certain forms of nervousness in children don't imagine you see signs of this difficulty when they don't exist—and I am writing on this subject because so many parents ask for it.

First, let me say that much of children's nervousness disappears naturally—just in the course of time as they grow older and understand more. We don't have to take radical steps every time a child seems to be a little nervous.

That's the first part of my preface. The second is that nervousness can appear in various forms. It's like the former Lon Chaney of protean fame in the films.

A child may make spasmodic muscular movements and so be visibly nervous. But she may also be well coördinated physically and still be nervous, as evidenced by easy tears, or vomiting when faced with certain situations, or being fearful about a great many things.

In other words, there's a visible nervousness and a hidden or more deep seated kind. Whatever kind of nervousness it may be, our line of attack is to be on the whole child—that is, our treatment consists of building our child up in every respect of his being, of his personality. That means we'll try to build up his body [which includes the building up even of his actual nerve tissue]—and his sense of being loved—of being secure—and his self-esteem.

"Diet Suggestions for the School Child" is a leaflet of interest to parents, teachers and nurses. Send a large, stamped, addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, the Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Good Morning!

"The Cisco Kid," that dashing bandit of the Rio Grande who made his first screen appearance in the first out of doors "talkie," "In Old Arizona," and who was described in that movie as escaping because he "could shoot five-sixths of a second sooner than any other man," takes his third screen bow in "The Return of the Cisco Kid." "The Cisco Kid" was the second movie of the series.

This photoplay isn't as big as "In Old Arizona," nor, perhaps, quite so exciting as "The Cisco Kid," but it's a whooping fine "western" which brings a "dead" "Kid" to life and launches him into a fresh series of daredevil exploits.

As the picture opens you see the hero killed before your eyes. But, ha, he ees steel alife! His loyal aids have seen to that. They have—but never mind what "they have"——

Because he's supposed to be dead the Kid is able to go back to Arizona—from where he was expelled in "The Cisco Kid," and do a lot of Robin Hooding in the cause of a distraught damsel—who—alas, cannot learn to love him. But never mind—there is still Conchita—or Perdita—a nice girl and good company even though she does have "the feet like a duck."

That Warner Baxter never stales, does he? Personality—it's a great thing—and that's what he has. And sincerity and the good sense that never lets him take himself too seriously.

An expert cast supports the star and under splendid direction the movie spins along in a manner which should delight everybody.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

Most players look on the redouble as an offensive weapon, to be used only when one is sure of fulfilling one's own contract and is not afraid of the opponents running out to a paying sacrifice. That, of course, is the prime function of a redouble, but it is not the only one. It also can be used to great advantage as a demand on one's partner to "get out of the way" and let the redoubler take charge, as in the following hand:

NORTH
♠ K Q 7
♥ J 6 4
♦ A 9 2
♣ A 7 5 3

WEST
♠ 9 6 5 4
♥ A K Q 10 7 5

SOUTH

♣ J 10 9 8 2

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 heart	Double	Redouble	2 clubs
Pass	Pass	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

It took considerable self-restraint on West's part, first to pass to the two club bid, and second, to leave in the double of that contract. He had great confidence in his partner, however, and although the leave-in of such a double, when void of the doubled suit, is not usually the best practice, decided to gamble it out this time. Although the result was excellent from the East-West point of view, I am strongly inclined to feel that West's "obedience" was a mistake and that it was only because declarer played the hand badly that West did not live to regret it.

Three rounds of hearts were played at the start, declarer ruffing the third, while East discarded a spade. Declarer then led a low club to the ace and, when West showed out, probably was a bit rattled. The diamond ace was cashed and a low diamond was continued, East ducking. West's jack won and a low spade was returned, dummy's queen being captured by the ace. East now took charge of the trump situation, cashing the king and queen, then forcing out declarer's last trump by exiting with the six spot. There was very little declarer could do now to save his own neck. He led a diamond, which East won. Now all East had to do was exercise a little care and judgment. Since he had to return a spade, the only consideration was which spade to choose, and that did not take much imagination.

It was extremely easy to count out declarer's original holding for five clubs, four diamonds, two hearts, and two spades. The heart and club suits had been actually revealed, and the diamond suit was almost equally easy to count, since West had played the jack on the second round and the queen on the third. Hence, East could be sure, at this point, that declarer was down to one spade. If it were the nine or lower spade, it would not matter what East returned at this point, but it might be [and was] the ten spot, and in that case East would have to be careful to smother it, otherwise the ten would hold and declarer would be able to cash his thirteenth diamond. East carefully laid down the spade jack and, it was all over. Dummy's low spade was a hostage to the defenders and became the third undertrick for a penalty of 800 points. Since this was considerably better than East-West could have earned by going game themselves, they, naturally, rejoiced.

Declarer should have saved a trick and thereby obtained an excellent score for his own team. He had no right to expect a good trump break, considering East's prompt double, hence should not have touched trumps. He should have played to ruff one spade and one heart and to surrender, in all, only one spade, two hearts, two diamonds, and two clubs. A 500 point penalty would have been cheap.

Could Candid Camera Catch You Off Guard?

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We have an amusing letter from a correspondent who tells us that in her family there is one of those modern creatures of torture—a candid camera fiend.

"Believe me, I know what a fiend a camera fiend can be, too," the correspondent writes. "Fancy being confronted at breakfast time by an incorrigible of 'teen age and a camera fiend, with a whole strip of yourself as you never under heaven dreamed you were.

"Yes, that's what happened to me last Sunday morning before I had makeup on, a cup of coffee to resuscitate me, or was properly dressed to withstand the blow.

"'Do I make faces like that, son?' I asked him.

"'Those are only the ones I caught you at,' was his blithe answer.

"There I was, and I couldn't deny it, with my face screwed up as though one side were paralyzed. 'But I don't do that,' I protested. 'Your favorite expression, Mom,' was the brutal reply. 'I didn't get you frowning,' he added, 'but that's to come!'

"Perhaps I should be glad that I have a censor like that. Anyway, it started me quizzing myself on the subject of grimaces. Also, it started a silly train of thought about other women whom I met and observed. 'What,' I would say to myself, 'would her son make of her or her brother or some one, any one with a candid camera.'

"We do get into ridiculous habits and distorting ones of which we are completely unconscious. I wasn't conscious of screwing up my face in that hideous way, nor of frowning nor of biting my lips, which, thank heavens, I discovered for myself before son went after me with his deadly instrument.

"I am simply passing on this unusual experience of mine for whatever good it may do other women."

Rembrandt Sold by Ringlings for Claim of Divorced Wife

Sarasota, Fla., May 30.—(AP)—Sale of Rembrandt's "St. John the Evangelist" from the John and Mable Ringling Museum of Art to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts for $85,000 was announced today.

The sale was ordered on petition of John Ringling North and his mother, Mrs. Ida Ringling North, co-executors of the John Ringling estate, to satisfy a foreclosure decree obtained by Mrs. Emily Haag Buck Ringling, divorced wife of the late circus magnate.

Mrs. Ringling obtained a foreclosure on five paintings to satisfy a $50,000 note given her by Ringling prior to their marriage. Interest raised the total more than 50 per cent.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., May 30.—Larry French, Vance Page, and an errorless staff of Cub opportunists today chilled off the recently rampant Reds like a swarm of blizzards from Greenland. Larry shut out the erstwhile giddy Reds, 6 to 0, in the morning game, and Vance produced an even better blast in the afternoon to freeze the startled Redland players and fans, 2 to 0.

Only four Reds got to third base all day. A crowd of 21,774 pennant crazed fans suffered through the morning encounter and the defeat limited the afternoon assemblage to 18,875. It was the first morning and afternoon program in Cincinnati in thirteen years, and there's no telling when there'll be another.

Only Five Hits off Page.

The Cubs won the morning game by keeping right after Whitey Moore and successors while French was doing his stuff. Production in the second game was more dramatic. Page was touched for a double in the first inning and not another hit until one was out in the eighth. There were five hits in all off Page.

The Cubs made four hits off Bucky Walters, who was in quest of his seventh victory. The first two were enough. The first was a homer by Jim Gleeson, the other a single by Gabby Hartnett. Gabby went to second on a sacrifice and, of all things, scored from second on a passed ball.

French Keeps Pace with Diz.

French's masterpiece was the fourth straight victory for the revived lefty, and he and Dizzy Dean, running as an entry, have accounted for six of the Cubs' last nine victories.

Larry's was the second shutout of the year for the Cubs, Dean's 4 to 0 triumphs over the Bees being the other. It also was the first Cub verdict over the Reds this season. It ended the Reds' home winning streak at eleven games.

Larry yielded only one single and one pass in the first four innings, while protecting a 1 to 0 lead. He gave up seven hits the rest of the way, two with two out in the fifth and two with two out in the ninth.

The Cubs' nine hit attack was led by Augie Galan, whose sore elbow seemed suddenly to heal in the hot Cincy sun. Augie made a single, a triple, and another single in his last three times at bat. He drove in the Cubs' second, third, and sixth runs, and scored the fourth himself.

FIRST GAME

The first inning of the 6 to 0 morning success not only produced the winning run for the Cubs, but also the second entertaining umpiring skit of the series by George, Will, and Dolly, known to the trade as the Jolly Confusion trio.

Hack walked to get the match under way and Herman flied to Goodman. With the count two balls and two strikes on Gleeson, Hack broke for second. Catcher Hershberger threw the ball into left center, Hack proceeding to third. George, of the trio, otherwise Plate Umpire Magerkurth, called Gleeson out for interfering with Hershberger's throw.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Chase Fannon, 19 year old Iowan who has been merely the No. 4 player on Northwestern university's golf team for much of this season, is now the champion of the Western conference. He won that honor yesterday when he finished the two day seventy-two hole battle on the water course of the Kildeer Country club with a score of 295, seven over par.

Fannon's personal achievement was the leading factor in the team championship won by Northwestern, with a seventy-two hole total of 1,197. This, together with Fannon's individual aggregate, gave the Wildcats two new conference records for tournaments held under summer rules. Previous events usually forced the committee to conduct the event under the winter code.

Fannon's Victory a Surprise.

Second in the team standing was Michigan, which, until Northwestern came through in 1937, had dominated both individual and team competition for five straight years. The Wolverines finished twenty-nine strokes back of the victors with 1,226.

Thus, Ted Payseur, coach of the Wildcats, has sent out three consecutive individual championships and two team titles.

Completely overlooked as a possibility for the individual title, and rated only as a likely associate in a Northwestern team victory, the slender, dark haired Fannon fooled everybody. He played smart, courageous golf.

Fannon took the lead at the end of the first eighteen holes Monday and clung to it right to the finish. That first eighteen saw him shoot a 72,

36,000 SEE SOX, TIGERS DIVIDE DOUBLE-HEADER

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox were a gang of tough fellows yesterday as long as they were under the guidance of that venerable 38 year old battler—Ted Lyons. Apparently unworried by his rating as a baseball ancient, Ted touched off a charge of his boy wonder pitching, 1939 variety, and it caught Detroit's Tigers squarely between the eyes, much to the pleasure of 36,000 spectators, Chicago's largest turnout of the season. But after Lyons had triumphed, 6 to 2, Jack Knott took charge, only to flop and give the Tigers an even break, 8 to 3, in the Memorial day program.

Lyons wasn't exactly a no hit pitcher—there were nine safe plunks during his term—but the Tigers couldn't even come close to locating him in seven of the nine innings. His two shaky sessions were the second and eighth, when the Tigers scored their two runs, the same total Lyons has yielded his last three foes.

Who Is This Rowe?

Lyons drew Schoolboy Rowe as an opponent but Ted's associates took good care of the big fellow's effort to prove he had accomplished a comeback. Particularly anti-Rowe were Joe Kuhel, Rip Radcliff, and Mike Kreevich. Kuhel exploded three hits and was hit by a pitched ball. He scored three runs. Radcliff's contributions to the Rowe retreat were his first homer, which drove Kuhel to the plate, and a single, which also registered Kuhel. Kreevich was the author of three singles, two of which scored three pals.

The Sox started the second battle impressively but it didn't last. Gerald Walker plunked his fifth homer of the season off the delivery of Paul Trout to provide a two run, first inning lead. But from this point until he finally vanished under slight pressure in the seventh, Trout handled the party to suit himself. Meanwhile Knott, after Dixie Walker's homer had shaved down the Sox lead to a tie, went into arrears by one run in the fourth and out of action completely in the sixth, when the Tigers put on a three run rally. Later Vic Frasier was knocked about a bit.

FIRST GAME

The Sox took a one run lead in the opening inning of the first game, although they should have had more, considering that four batters reached base. Bejma opened with a single and stopped at third on Kuhel's double. Rowe threw out the next two batters but was so suspicious of Appling he issued an intentional pass. Kreevich scratched a hit to third and Bejma scored. This slim edge lasted only

The Girl Who Used to Be You.

I'd been sitting tonight in the gloaming
Watching the fire flare blue,
When out of the flames came dancing
The girl who used to be you.

The girl with the glorified figure,
The shimmering, short brown hair;
This memory girl I used to love,

Our walks in the pale purple twilight
After the sun had set,
And the glorious dreams that we builded,
Have you forgotten them yet?

One of us took a wrong turning,
Slowly we drifted apart,
Somehow another, then unknown,
Now is enshrined in your heart.

Often when shadows are falling
Again I stroll with her in fancy,
This girl who used to be you.

Thank you, God, for a heart's dull pain

And again for the cares and sorrows and strife,
Thank you for my humble part.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

A heavy betting holiday crowd of 25,000 jammed the stands and surged across the terraces of Lincoln Fields yesterday to see J. W. Parrish's Dellor, W. F. Morgan's Rapid Way, and Warren Wright's Easy Mon assume the starring roles in a Memorial day triple feature.

Dellor came home on top in the $2,500 Francis S. Peabody Memorial, Rapid Way outran his juvenile rivals in the $2,500 Chicago Heights handicap, and Easy Mon scored in an allowance event for 3 year olds.

The mutuels handle totaled $496,940, which was $18,517 more than last year's Memorial day betting.

It's Dellor by 3 Lengths.

Jockey Carroll Bierman brought Dellor up fast in the stretch to finish four lengths ahead of John Marsch's King's Blue. In the last fifty yards, the Nash Brothers' Burning Star closed with mighty strides to take third place.

Dellor, which had raced sucessfully at Churchill Downs, was well regarded in the betting, being second choice to Emil Denemark's entry, Finance and Melodist. Dellor returned his backers $9.20, $4.80, and $3.80. He ran the mile over a good track in 1:38-4-5.

Chance Ray broke first but Finance took the lead away from him during the run down the chute. In the back stretch, King's Blue moved up to join them. Meanwhile Dellor, which had got away well, dropped back and was running fifth at the half mile.

Trophy Goes to Winner.

On the turn out of the back stretch, Dellor ran into crowded quarters and was unable to get through when Bierman tried to move with him. He was taken wide approaching the stretch and, finding racing room, came on rapidly when straightened out for the run home. He quickly wore down the leaders.

Stuyvesant Peabody presented Parrish's representatives with a handsome trophy. The race is a memorial to his father, Francis Peabody.

Trainer Bob McGarvey had Rapid Way just as sharp yesterday as he was a month ago. Jockey Carroll Bierman, who was aboard the winner, let Centuple and Black Time cut out the early pace. During the run around the turn Rapid Way worked his way up and was close to the leaders as they headed home. Though he was carried wide he made up for loss of ground by responding well when called on. Speedily he wore down Centuple, took a commanding lead and romped across the finish line three lengths in the lead. The Woolford farm's Quenemo worked his way up in the final eighth and finished

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 30.—Max Baer and Lou Nova are awaiting their date in Yankee stadium Thursday evening without knowledge of the facts, now assembled, which label this heavyweight battle as a presentation of a medley of miscalculations by the management of each principal and by Mike Jacobs, the promoter.

Unless this fight grosses at least $100,000 from New Yorkers now completing Manhattan's annual Memorial day migrations, Jacobs is in error. Indeed, this sum is a sad excuse for the effort and ballyhoo expended, for Mike seemingly has forgotten that his midas touch stems back to Joe Louis and not to Baer, whom Louis humiliated four years ago, or to Nova, practically an unknown newcomer.

Obstacles Are Numerous.

Baer lost his following when he quit before Louis' punishing attack. Nova hasn't any sizable following despite his thrilling victory over Tommy Farr, for his most ardent supporters, conceding he possesses advantages over Baer, are aghast at prospect of the young man facing the Brown Bomber.

Jacobs can be more easily convicted of indifferent judgment. First of all, the fight will be held on the evening the Brooklyn Dodgers play their first night game. This will draw a crowd of 35,000, some of whom must be considered potential customers for the cheaper Yankee stadium seats. Then, in understandable desire to circumvent the weather that has more times than not forced postponement of bouts scheduled before Memorial day, Jacobs chose June 1.

Talent's Running Low.

This promotional calendar pushed Baer and Nova too close to the title bout between Louis and Tony Galento. In the lush era of the late twenties the bouts might have been held on successive nights. Now, even the boys with the ready money, and New

TRIPLE SMASHUP KILLS ROBERTS, INJURES FOUR

Indianapolis Driver Averages 115 M.P.H.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., May 30.—A former champion, Floyd Roberts of Van Nuys, Cal., was killed and another former champion, Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis, received a second crown in the 27th 500 mile Memorial day automobile race today

Roberts, the 1938 winner, suffered a fatal brain concussion in a three car smashup that injured two other drivers and two women spectators. The injured are:

Chet Miller, Detroit, burned about the head and with a guard rail splinter in his left shoulder.

Mrs. Bruce Milliken, Thorntown, Ind., fractured leg.

Wreck Cuts Down Time.

Shaw, the 1937 victor, won this speedway classic with the fastest driving ever seen at one of these Hoosier holidays. His average time for the total distance, however, was above the track record, due to the prolonged slow period while the wreck was being cleared from the track.

Roberts died with his record of 117.2 m. p. h., established last year, unbroken. Shaw's average was 115.035 m. p. h. in today's performance.

The crowd was estimated by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, president of the Speedway corporation, at 145,000. The management doesn't make public its gate receipts.

The others to share in the $100,000 in prizes were:

4—Ted Horn, Burbank, Cal.
5—Babe Stapp, Los Angeles.
6—George Barringer, Houston.
7—Joel Thorne, New Rochelle, N. Y.
8—Mauri Rose, Columbus, O.
9—Frank Wearne, Pasadena, Cal.
10—Billy Devore, St. John, Kas.

Swanson Relieves Snowberger.

On the south turn Swanson's car was seen to wobble. Roberts, overtaking Swanson at the time, crashed into the staggering machine.

The former champion's car ecaromed through a guard rail, terrorizing a crowd of spectators and hitting the two women. Swanson's car, still on the track, burst into flames and Miller smashed into it. Miller was thrown against a wooden guard rail and Swanson also was tossed clear of the flames.

While the injured were receiving first aid and while the fire was being fought with chemicals, other cars in the race continued their turns around the track, but at a reduced pace, retaining their relative positions under rules imposed by a yellow warning flag.

Leaves Three Children.

Roberts was 39 years old, married, and the father of three children. He had confided to friends that this was to be his last race. He had been in competition for twenty-one years but had competed at this track only since 1935.

Shaw won in a Masarati, an alcohol burner imported from Italy by Michael Boyle, electrical union official of Chicago. It was the first time until the second inning when the score was tied on singles by York and Higgins, a sacrifice and an infield out.

SMILIN' JACK—MONEY TALKS—TOO MUCH

Sox and Tigers Break Even in DoubleHeader

One Hit Scores Pair.

The Sox collected only one hit in the fifth but it came in the wake of some misdeeds by Rowe so proved good for two runs. Kuhel was hit on the right foot by a pitched ball and Gee Walker drew a pass. Radcliff's bunt shoved 'em along and Appling was purposely passed. Kreevich's single to right sent Kuhel and Gee Walker home. Kuhel scored again in the seventh on his own single, F. Walker's fumble and Radcliff's single.

The Tigers were a bit rough on Lyons in the eighth but it meant only a run. Dixie Walker caromed a single off Lyons' glove. Gehringer lined to Radcliff. Greenberg's fly fell in short center for a single. After York's tap to Owen had forced F. Walker at third, Higgins singled to left and sent Greenberg home.

SECOND GAME

Preliminary to Gee Walker's homer, which started the Sox off with a two run lead in the second battle, Bejma beat out a single to Gehringer. Bejma went to second on Kuhel's infield out and home when Walker whacked his fifth homer into the left field seats. Knott, helped considerably by a tight defense, held the lead until the third, when Detroit's Fred Walker, a Sox alumnus, whistled his third home run of the season into the right field pavilion with a mate on base.

Knott yielded only two singles in the fourth but that was enough to produce a run. Greenberg opened with a single to left. Appling slowed down a single by Higgins but didn't suspect Greenberg's intentions so made no haste about recovering the ball. Luke was very much surprised when he saw Hank sliding into third base. Higgins and Bell were mopped up in a double play but Greenberg sneaked home.

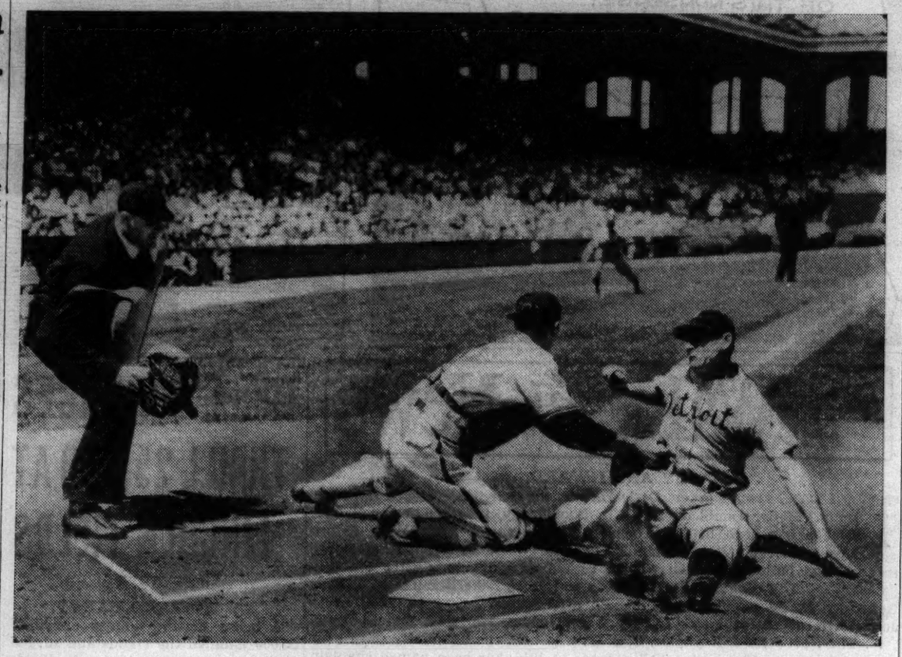
End Approaches for Knott.

The Tigers began shaking the death rattle for Knott when Gehringer opened the sixth with a low line drive which Radcliff thought he could catch. The ball did a billiard off Rip's shin for a triple. Greenberg fanned but Higgins put Kreevich to work on a long fly ball and Gehringer scored after the catch. The banging broke out anew when Bell tripled and scored on a two bagger by Kress. Knott was informed his services were no longer required. Rigney stepped into the vacancy but Tebbetts didn't notice the change. He singled to left, scoring Kress with the third run of the rally.

The Sox finally hooked Trout in the seventh but he yielded only one run. Kreevich opened with a single to center and, after two were gone, scored on a single by Steinbacher, who swung for Rigney. Trout walked Bejma and then walked to the clubhouse. Benton, his successor, walked Kuhel but, with the bases filled, Gee Walker tapped to Higgins.

The first happening to Frasier in the eighth was a single by Higgins. Kress and Tebbetts also singled and Appling fumbled Benton's grounder. The net result of all this was the last two runs of the day.

Appling's Arm Mows Down Fox at the Plate



Pete Fox tried to score when Charley Gehringer grounded to Luke Appling in the first inning of the first game between the White Sox and Tigers in Comiskey park yesterday—and this is the result. Catcher Mike Tresh had plenty of time to make the play and didn't make Fox any happier by putting the ball against his short ribs. Ed Rommel is the umpire. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

York still has more of these citizens than any other city, think twice before asking change for a double sawbuck when another must be found in three weeks.

If both cards were telescoped into one it is conceivable that gross receipts might have been only slightly less than the combined receipts of two performances.

Other critics have already suggested that Baer should have been matched with Galento, rather than Nova, and then if the two clowns didn't eliminate themselves, the winner should face Louis. But this double feature each summer of the champion has now made such excessive demands on heavyweight talent that a 30 year old veteran, who hasn't fought in 15 months, a youngster who has had only 26 fights, and a Tony Galento, beaten 28 times, become figures of importance.

The lineup of principles is as indiscriminately mixed as an order of scrambled eggs. Mrs. Ray Carlin, wife of Nova's manager, is a cousin of Ancil Hoffman, Baer's manager. Ray Arcel, Nova's trainer, has worked more times with Baer than any man except Izzy Kline and knows Max better than he does his own fighter, whom he first saw last year when he seconded Farr against him.

But the fall guy in Thursday's fight will be a little man in a ringside seat who will watch another fortune in the making and know he still would be getting his share except for a series of almost unbelievable mistakes. This man, J. Hamilton Lorimer, once owned both Baer and Nova.

Moreover, Carlin, now mapping Nova's campaign, lost out on management of Baer along with Lorimer, and then bought control of Nova from Lorimer for $1,000, $500 down, and the rest on tab.

Thursday evening the situation may be unravelled. If Baer loses, and he certainly will if he cannot stop Nova in five or six rounds, he can definitly be excused to bask in California's sun and to pick up a few dollars here and there to augment his annuities.

James J. Braddock said tonight that he will second Nova. The former heavyweight champion has been instructing Lou in his training camp.

C. Murphy, Wachman Meet in Singles Final.

Table of Points

Chicago	17	Minnesota	4
Northwestern	16	Ohio State	3
Michigan	7½	Wisconsin	2
Illinois	5	Iowa	1½

Chicago maintained a slim lead in its defense of the Big Ten tennis title as the annual tournament moved through the semi-final round on the Midway courts yesterday. Seventeen victories and one default in the eighteen matches thus far gave the Maroons 17 points, one more than Northwestern.

Championship matches will be played this afternoon in all nine divisions of the tournament—six singles and three doubles—beginning at 1:30 o'clock. Except for two of these divisions the No. 2 and 6 singles, the finals will look like a Chicago-Northwestern dual meet, for each has men in eight of the nine divisions. Chicago must win five today to insure victory.

Bill Murphy of Chicago, who has a strained back muscle, was forced to default yesterday in the No. 2 singles semi-finals. He joined his brother Chet in the doubles, however, and they went to the No. 1 finals, in which they must face Marvin Wachman and Frank Froehling of Northwestern.

The No. 1 singles title will be between Wachman and Chet Murphy, both of whom won their semi-final matches easily. This match should be closely contested, for each has beaten the other once in dual competition this season. Summaries:

Seventy-two racing sail yachts and several hundred of the city's cruising sail fleet were out on the lake front yesterday for the official opening of the 1939 season. A strong, gusty southwest breeze kept all craft moving fast.

Alert IV., Dr. T. J. Morris' R class sloop, won the first series race for the class on the Chicago Yacht club's twelve mile course, sailing the triangular course in 2 hours 16 minutes and 40 seconds. Malcolm Vail's Gossoon II., former champion, was second. Orn, Dr. A. Verbrugghen's Eagle class sloop, won in its class in 2:35:58. Sawbones, Drs. The Skippers' cup, awarded to the first cruising class yacht of the club, went to Sally, Manning Hodgdon's cutter. Shamrock defeated Princess in the Q and 8 meter class, in 1:18:29.

Big 10 Golf King

CHASE FANNON.

Fannon Wins Big Ten Golf Title with 295

even par for the water course, giving him a one stroke lead. He added a similar afternoon card for a thirty-six hole total of 144 and a three shot margin.

Chase needed a 77 to get around for a fifty-four hole score of 221. At the same time, Sid Richardson, North western captain who had won the title the last two years, made his move. Sid had soared to an 80 in the first round then came back with a 71 which left him seven strokes back of Fannon at the end of the first day. Yesterday morning Richardson fired another 71 and was only a shot back of Chase, with 222, but that total was matched by Willis Thomsen of Iowa.

Fannon Thrives on Pressure.

Thus it appeared that these two elders were in a spot to catch Fannon. He thought and proved otherwise by smacking out a fine 74, while Richardson needed a 76 and Thomsen a 77. Richardson's 298 took second place, a shot better than Thomsen's 299.

Tied at 302 were two more Northwestern players, Chet Bland and Frank Perpich; Capt. John David of Purdue, and Capt. Bob Palmer of Michigan.

Fannon owes his interest and instruction in the game to his father, who in addition to being superintendent of schools in Centerville, Ia., also has held the Southeastern Iowa title four times. Chase phoned his dad after his victory, but, as he suspected, Fannon Sr. was playing a bit of holiday golf himself.

The other eight entrants in the team competition, restricted to the best aggregate 72 hole score for the four low individual scorers from any one school, follow:

French, Page Blank Reds in Double Bill

mound for a little close harmony. And here's what the boys came up with: 'Twas an "unintentional interference," an ingenious ruling which enabled the perplexed umpires to just skip the whole thing. Hack was sent back to first and Gleeson walked. Galan was out on an infield fly, then Reynolds singled to right, Hack scoring.

Galan Drives in Some Runs.

Moore's wildness also was a factor in the production of the second run of the game, a Cub tally in the fifth. With two down, Herman and Gleeson walked, and Galan came through with the second Chicago hit, a single to center. Herman scored. Gleeson took third and Augie got to second on the throw to third. Reynolds flied to Bordagaray.

The Reds developed their first threat in the fifth. After Craft and Bordagaray had popped to Herman, Myers singled to left, the second hit off French. Moore also singled, and Werber drew French's second pass of the game, loading the bases. Lombardi batted for Frey and forced Werber.

The Cubs wasted their third and fourth hits in the sixth, but added a run in the seventh. Gleeson drew his third pass, stole second and walked home on Galan's triple to right. Gene Thompson replaced Moore and Reynolds walked. Reynolds stole second and Hershberger, trying to catch Galan off third, threw wide to Werber, Galan scoring.

Cubs Turn Sluggers.

French escaped a jam in the seventh. Craft opened with a single and Bordagaray walked. Myers was called out on strikes after a three and two count, and Wally Berger, batting for Thompson, fanned, Werber forced Craft at third.

The Cubs made four hits off Peaches Davis to score twice in the eighth. French knocked his second single. Hack also singled, then Herman forced him, French stopping at third. Gleeson singled to center, scoring French. Galan came through with his third straight hit, a single to right, scoring Herman.

SECOND GAME

The Reds developed a medium threat in the first inning of the second game when Frey doubled with one down. Lonnie got to third on Goodman's fly to Gleeson, but the inning ended with McCormick's pop to Bartell.

Gleeson was the only Cub to reach base in the first four innings. He was hit by a pitched ball in the first inning. With one out in the fourth, Gleeson smacked his homer over the center field wall, which is 383 feet from the plate.

And Hartnett the Winnah!

The Cub fifth really presented one for the book, a race between those two famous gazelles, Lombardi and Hartnett, running in different directions, with Gabby the winner. He opened the inning with a single to right and advanced on G. Russell's sacrifice. After Bartell supplied the second out Walters loosed a wild pitch to the screen and the Lombardi-Hartnett Derby was under way, Snozz thundering after the ball, of course, and Gabby rounding third without a pause. He slid into the plate just as Walters caught Lombardi's throw.

Herman Wastes a Triple.

McCormick opened the home ninth with the fourth Cincy hit, a single to left, then Lombardi flied to Gleeson. Craft beat out a bouncer to Bartell. McCormick stopping at second. Scarsella batted for Bordagaray and lined to Bartell. Bongiovanni batted for Myers and flied to Gleeson to end the game.

LEO TRACK TEAM WINS AS THREE OLD MARKS FALL

Three records were broken and one equalled in the Catholic High School League junior track and field meet in Riis park yesterday. Leo won title with 22 points. Loyola finished second with 18 5-6 points, a fraction more than St. George, the defending champion.

Jacobouski, De Paul's one man team, broke the record in the 220 yard dash, equalled the 100 and in addition won the broad jump with a leap of 19 feet. He raced the 220 in :22.9 to clip off three-tenths of a second and did the century in :10.4.

Spencer of Loyola increased the shot put distance by almost three feet, his effort measuring 51 feet, 9½ inches. The old mark was 48 feet, 9¾ inches.

St. George's team of O'Donnell, Borre, Edwards and Brekke, bettered the half-mile relay time in 1:36.9. Their old mark, made last year, was 1:37.5. Summaries:

93 PROOF

KENTUCKY became famous for its BOURBON WHISKEY because it has the proper type of water and other necessary and ideal conditions for the making of that product. The best results are obtained when only the finest selected grains are used and when the whiskey is distilled in the old-fashioned way. The mash must contain a sufficient percentage of small grains to give the product body. That type of whiskey will continue to improve with ageing—and when fully matured in the wood nothing can be added that will improve its quality. For three quarters of a century CHAPIN & GORE whiskies have never been MIXED—have always been marketed as STRAIGHT KENTUCKY BOURBON WHISKEY—made in the old-fashioned way—the SOUR MASH METHOD. C & G "OLD RESERVE" KENTUCKY STRAIGHT BOURBON WHISKEY has a rich, distinctive flavor. This whiskey is now 4 YEARS and 6 MONTHS old.

ROBERTS KILLED AS SHAW WINS 500 MILE RACE

Snyder Finishes Second; Bergere Third.

Shaw was pressed through most of the race by Louis Meyer of Huntington, Cal., who took first in 1928, 1933, and 1936, and by Jimmy Snyder of Chicago. Shaw headed a three car team for Boyle, and Snyder was the main hope of Joel Thorne, who had inherited wealth invested in three entries.

Meyer was in a supercharged eight and Snyder was driving a six cylinder alcohol burner built in Thorne's California shop.

A Big Day for Wilbur.

Shaw's victory is calculated to bring him between $40,000 and $42,000. He gets $20,000 from the speedway as first prize and $1,400 in lap prizes. The rest of the reward is from accessory manufacturers. As an owner, he will also share in the eighth place money won by Mauri Rose, who was driving Shaw's old machine.

Snyder won $2,600 in lap money, and Meyers will collect $2,500 from this source. In addition to the first prize the speedway pays $10,000 for second, $5,000 for third, $3,500 for fourth, $3,000 for fifth, $2,200 for sixth, $1,800 for seventh, $1,600 for eighth, $1,500 for ninth, and $1,400 for tenth. In addition, all starters received $500 each.

Snyder took the lead on the first lap. Closely pressed by Meyer and Shaw, the Chicago boy fed alcohol to his supercharged motor as fast as it could take it, making new records at every whirl around the two and a half mile track.

Tires were scorched at this pace and Snyder was forced into the pits for a change on his thirty-fifth lap. He had accumulated $1,800 in lap prizes when he surrendered the lead to Shaw.

The other leaders also soon had to make stops of from two to two and a half minutes for tire changes so that at the half way mark, 250 miles, Snyder was again in the lead, this time a complete lap ahead of Meyer. Shaw was in third position and Horn was fourth.

Maintain Record Speed.

The time for this first half of the race was a new track record of 120.893 miles an hour. The best previous mark was the 118.954 made last year by Roberts.

Following a resumption of speed in later stages of the race, after the three car wreckage had been cleared, Snyder continued to push hard on his accelerator, but he was plagued with tire trouble. The turns were burning his rubber. However, after four pit stops, he was still only two laps behind the leader at the 400 mile mark.

Meyer had a one lap lead over Shaw with only 100 miles to go. Snyder was third and Ted Horn was fourth. The urgent demand for split second decisions with accelerator and steering wheel crowded out any fleeting thought of the tragedy.

Lou Comes Right Back.

Shaw was closing the one minute gap between him and the leader, with less than fifty miles to go to the checkered flag, when Meyer skidded and spun on the south turn, blowing a right front tire. Lou jumped from his bucket seat, inspected the damage and jumped back in. He started again and ran for two miles on the flat tire to the pits for a new tire and was back in the race again, in third place.

Shaw was then in first place, two laps ahead of Snyder. The Indianapolis driver took advantage of this lead to pause at the pits 105 seconds for gasoline. He got back to the track in time to retain the lead by a lap.

Snyder overtook and passed Meyer when the latter's car stalled on the back stretch with only eight miles to go to the finish line, but Snyder couldn't catch Shaw. Wilbur crossed the finish line over a lap ahead of the second place Chicago boy.

Gullota Finishes 11th.

After the checked flag had been given to ten, Tony Gullota of Detroit, finished eleventh, outside the money, and two cars remaining in the race at the end, George Connor of Los Angeles and Louis Tomei of Portland, Ore., were waved from the track.

Tomei was in an Italian car, an Alfa Romeo.

Three cars failed to finish due to the fatal crash, one was eliminated by bumping into a wall, breaking a wheel while pulling into the pits, and sixteen were forced out by mechanical troubles of various kinds.

Russell Snowberger, Detroit, 148 miles, defective cooling system; Al Miller, Detroit, 102 miles, stalled motor; Ira Hall, Terre Haute, Ind., 227 miles, motor trouble; Ralph Hepburn, 269 miles, wreck; Floyd Roberts, Van Nuys, Cal., 245 miles, wreck; Chet Miller, Detroit, 274 miles, wreck; Bob Swanson, Los Angeles, [his starting car] 47 miles, defective motor; Emil Andres, Chicago, 50 miles, defective oil line.

CHICAGO STOCK EXCHANGE HAS LOSS FOR YEAR

Blames Restrictions for Dull Trading.

Decreased activity in securities was reflected in the annual report of the Chicago Stock exchange for the fiscal year ended April 30, 1939, which disclosed that expenditures exceeded income by $52,916. In the fiscal year ended April 30, 1938, the exchange's expenditures exceeded income by $35,719 and in the preceding year the exchange had a surplus over expenditures of $10,953.

Arthur M. Betts.

Arthur M. Betts, chairman of the board of governors, in the annual report to the members said "unnecessary restrictions" have been a deterrent to market activity.

"Economic and political conditions, and the prevailing tax structures are undoubtedly the major factors determining the nature and extent of public participation in the securities markets," he explained.

Blames Unnecessary Restrictions.

"In our opinion, however, functioning of the markets has been inadequate due to unnecessary restrictions.

"We were represented in the recent conference of leading national securities exchanges. After thorough study and debate a unanimous memorandum of suggested changes was submitted to the securities and exchange commission, based on the practical experiences and findings of the exchanges after five years of operation under the securities act of 1934. Although we had hoped for judicious consideration, the recommendations were not favorably received when presented.

"The problems and facts remain, nevertheless, the same. Much misunderstanding respecting security markets exists. It is to be hoped that a sympathetic understanding of essential constructive factors may be developed, and these problems considered in an open-minded spirit."

Home, Farm Electricity Use Expands in '38

New York, May 30.—(AP)—A great expansion in the nation's electric service in 1938, despite the year's decline in business activity, was disclosed today in the annual statistical report of the Edison Electric institute.

"The most significant aspect of the year's operations," the institute said, "was the further increase in the use of energy by residential, farm, and small commercial customers. This growth occurred during a year when the general level of business was below that of 1937.

Home Use Builds Up Load.

"It is further evidence of the results achieved by the continuing efforts of utility companies, in coöperation with appliance dealers, in building up load and of the growing recognition by customers of the value and cheapness of electric service in the home, on the farm, and in small commercial establishments."

Commenting on the increased stability which has been occasioned by the greater diversification of the use of electricity since 1926, when comprehensive electric statistics were first collected, the institute stated: "The marked change which has taken place in the last thirteen years in the proportion of the total energy used by different classes of customers is emphasized by the fact that, in 1938, 17 per cent of the electric energy distributed was for residential use, as compared with only 9.7 per cent in 1926.

Small Business Uses More.

"Small commercial customers consumed 16 per cent of the total energy distributed in 1938, against 13.5 per cent in 1926, and large light and power customers took only 40.4 per cent in 1938, compared with 46.2 per cent in 1926.

"The growth in the use of electricity by residential, farm, and small commercial customers has increased the stability of the industry markedly over the last thirteen years and is evidence of the more general acceptance of electricity by these customer groups."

Nazis 'Force' O.K. on Taking Czech Funds

BASEL, Switzerland, May 30.—(AP)—The Bank for International Settlements today announced it had "been forced" to authorize handing over to Germany about $25,000,000 which had been deposited in the Bank of England for the Czecho-Slovak National bank.

New Bosses Make Demand.

The authorization was made after official demand "from the new administration of the Czech National bank," the B. I. S. said.

The fate of the Czech funds, deposited in London before the March partition of Czecho-Slovakia, has aroused the concern of some members of the British house of commons. On Friday David Lloyd George obtained a promise from the government that legal advice would be sought as to whether there was any way of preventing Germany from obtaining the funds.

Can't Retain Such Deposits.

"The British government could not oppose this stand for the simple reason that deposits made to the bank for international settlement by the central issuing banks have been made immune. That is, no right of retention can be extended against them," the B. I. S. declared.

The International bank said its only rôle in turning over the funds deposited in London was to verify the signatures of the Czech request for the money.

REPUBLIC STEEL SIGNS C. I. O. PACT; NO 'UNION SHOP'

Birmingham, Ala., May 30.—(AP)—Republic Steel corporation signed a new two year contract with the United Mine Workers of America [C. I. O.] and work in its coal mines, idle since April 1, will be resumed Thursday.

Republic's contract is similar to that signed by the Tennessee coal, Iron, and Railroad company and does not contain a "union shop" clause.

The agreement leaves Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company, and the Woodward Iron company, as the only major coal mine operators which have not agreed to resume operations.

SILK COCOON PRICES IN JAPAN AT HIGHEST LEVEL IN 20 YEARS

New York, May 30.—[Special.]—The spring market in silk cocoons opened today in the Shizuko district of Japan and cable advices reported transactions in white, dry cocoons at the highest price level in twenty years. Sharply higher prices also were reported for all other classes.

Raw silk in the American market was selling at approximately $1.70 a pound last January. The price has moved up to $2.68 a pound since then.

An unusually cold winter in Japan damaged mulberry trees and, with mulberry leaves—sole food of silk worms—in scant supply, the spring crop of cocoons is the smallest in many years. Demand for silk from American mills has been slow in recent months despite this crop condition.

JAPANESE STEEL MILL PLANT 49% U. S. FINANCED

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, May 30.—The United Engineering Foundry Company of Pittsburgh is supplying 49 per cent of the capital of the new Japanese-America company located in Tokio to manufacture rolling mill equipment. George Land, president of the Pittsburgh company, today told the newspaper Japanese Advertiser that he has made the investment to retain Japanese business.

The new enterprise is capitalized at 16 million yen, of which the Pittsburgh company provides 7,840 thousand yen, chiefly in machinery. Designing engineers already have arrived. Technicians, including shop superintendents and machine tool operators, will be sent from Pittsburgh to teach Japanese workmen.

Heating Contractors Open Fiftieth Convention Today

The Heating, Piping and Air Conditioning Contractors National association will open its fiftieth anniversary meeting at the Drake hotel this morning. The association was organized as the Master Steam and Hot Water Fitters' association in the old Leland hotel in Chicago in 1889. Several Chicago contractors, who are descendants of those who took part in the original meeting, will attend. Among them are S. Austin Pope, president of the Chicago Master Fitters' association.

MONEY SO CHEAP U. S. IS TEMPTED TO SPEND MORE

May Borrow to Soak Up Idle Funds.

New York, May 30.—(AP)—Government bond specialists today pictured Uncle Sam, the big time spender, sitting on top of the greatest pile of idle money in Wall street history and in position to shoot for a new low mark in borrowing costs on the treasury's forthcoming financing.

So heavy has become the pressure of idle money upon the government bond market, experts saic that the treasury may decide to make a June offering to raise additional cash just to curb the market's climbing urge.

The influx of foreign money and gold since the March war scare, it was pointed out, has quickened the accumulation of idle funds and brought the treasury close to a 2 per cent financing basis for long term bonds.

Some Bonds at Minus Yields.

More than $6,000,000,000 of the $40,000,000,000 federal debt, bond men said, has been quoted lately at prices affording the buyer no yield. This unusual situation resulted because the issues were in demand at premiums on the possibility that they would have priority subscription rights in future treasury financing.

With this extraordinary money background and rumors of another New Deal spending drive attracting Wall street attention, bond men waited for Secretary Morgenthau's announcement on June financing plans within the next few days. Morgenthau was expected to meet with his market advisers tomorrow for a final check-up before making his decision.

The budget points to a wide gap between federal spending and receipts for at least a year or two more. But the treasury has so much cash on hand, bond men said, it could ride along for several months without raising any more. A late treasury statement shows a "working balance"—available cash supply—of nearly $2,300,000,000.

Further Financing Tempted.

However, money market conditions are expected to tempt further financing, either to increase the cash for future spending or simply to meet the market's hunger for investment outlet. The pressure for investment from banks and other lending buyers of government obligations in recent weeks has pushed the prices of federal issues to record highs and lowered the average yield on long-term government bonds to about 2¼ per cent.

Secretary Morgenthau's huge financing operations in the last few years, it appears, have been aided as well as endangered by the recurrent European crises. On the one hand, bond men said, the treasury has been forced to steer cautiously, keep abnormally large amounts of cash in reserve, and play to the market to avoid a misstep in event of a turn for the worse in the foreign situation.

European Events Are Influence.

The European flareups, for the treasury, have had an uncomfortable way of intervening about the time big federal financing operations were going through the money mills. Notable were the March disturbances in financial markets this year and last as Hitler sent Nazi legions into Czecho-Slovakia and Austria.

On the other hand, the war scares have driven tidal waves of capital and gold to New York, supplementing already overflowing pools of idle money. Surplus reserves of member federal reserve banks last week reached an unprecedented figure of $4,300,000,000 and pointed higher.

Nebraska Hydro Project Has Loss for Four Months

Lincoln, Neb., May 30.—[Special.]—The Loup River public power district had $151,452 operating charges in excess of income during the last four months of 1938 for its hydro-electric and transmission division, according to a summary filed with the governor recently. From Sept. 1 to Dec. 31, 1938, the district had total income of $20,013, of which $19,938 was operating revenue. Operating expenses totaled $61,384, while interest on bonded indebtedness amounted to $110,053, making a total of $171,437 charges to operation. The expenses included nothing for depreciation.

Wheat Prices Abroad Hold About Steady

Winnipeg, Man., May 30.—(AP)—A quietly firm display at Liverpool, together with lack of southern interest due to the Memorial day holiday which kept United States markets closed, held wheat futures almost steady throughout a dull session today. Quotations moved narrowly and at the close were unchanged to ⅛ cent lower with May at 64⅝ cents; July, 65⅝@65¾ cents, and October, 67 cents.

Recent strength in North American markets, plus firm Argentine offers and substantial wheat shipments to the continent and non-European countries, lifted Liverpool prices.

Cash wheat trading was confined to small export purchases of the top northern grades.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES LOWER IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., May 30.—(AP)—Partial rallies followed early selling in cotton today and closing prices were steady at net losses of one to two points.

Disappointing cables brought out some selling in opening dealings, but trading was extremely small because of the general holiday and prices fluctuated within an extreme range of 1 to 3 points.

Offerings were made up of hedging, liquidation and realizing and were absorbed by trade calling on the scale down and increased covering toward the close. Final prices were at or near the best of the day.

MEXICO MAKES $1,000,000 PAYMENT ON SEIZED LAND

MEXICO CITY, May 30.—(AP)—The Mexican treasury drew a check for $1,000,000 today to hand to United States Ambassador Josephus Daniels in accordance with an agreement by the two governments for settlement of claims on American-owned lands expropriated since 1927 in Mexico's Agrarian program.

The claims commission working on the farm lands issue will meet again Friday to continue its discussions. The oil properties siezed by Mexico in March of 1938 are not involved.

The government recently requested mining companies to pay 7,000,000 pesos [$1,400,000] in advance on mineral production taxes. It was generally assumed that part of the money would be used to meet the first instalment on the land settlement claims.

MOST AMERICAN STOCKS FIRMER IN LONDON MART

Trading More Active After Holiday.

LONDON, May 30.—(AP)—A more optimistic view of the international situation caused a brisk business in the London markets today after the Whitsuntide holiday.

Rails declined slightly to the close after a strong opening. Among the American stocks, steels were in fair demand. The principal British industrials were strong, with Imperial Chemicals well in the lead.

Rubber Stocks Firm.

Active American issues on the London Stock exchange closed as follows [in American equivalents at $4.68¼ to the pound]:

Toronto Market Higher.

TORONTO, Ont., May 30.—(AP)—Trading broadened out today to involve the western oils in the stock market's upward swing and this group led the list for action and price increase. Profit taking held the golds to an even keel or a slight recession, but other indices were up. Volume was the heaviest in weeks at around 700,000 shares.

Montreal Stocks Firmer.

MONTREAL, Que., May 30.—(AP)—Leaders continued to edge forward in light buying on the stock market today. Gains of from fractions to a point stood out in the slowly moving list.

Paris Market Steady.

PARIS, May 30.—(AP)—The bourse showed general steadiness in operations today after the three day Whitsuntide holiday. Traders attributed this firmness to the easing of the international situation and optimistic reports of negotiations for a Franco-British-soviet accord.

MARKETS, BANKS REOPEN TODAY

The New York and Chicago Stock exchanges, the Chicago Board of Trade, the Chicago Live Stock exchange, and other leading financial and commodity markets will resume trading this morning after being closed yesterday in observance of Memorial day. Banks, which also were closed in observance of the day, will be opened again this morning. Some southern markets and banks remained open yesterday. Canadian and European exchanges were open as usual yesterday.

Farming—A Real Job.

May 30, 1939.

WITH the planting about over for this year, workers at the farm are planning for the harvest. The men discuss their plans as they go about their work and at odd moments whenever they are together. Recently one of these informal discussions in the barn lot during the noon hour brought out many interesting observations as to farmers' problems and what the individual farmer must do to meet them. Here are a few of the points on which all agreed:

Farmers need a good deal of initiative. They must decide on what crops to grow and how the crops are to be handled and marketed. To be successful farmers must carefully plan their work schedules and stick to them as closely as the weather and other conditions will permit. They must have fields ready when planting season comes and take advantage of planting weather.

The same is true with harvesting crops. There again the weather plays a big part. Decisions must be made, changed if necessary, and acted upon with intelligence. Men who cannot make up their minds to act will fail at farming.

What Farmer Must Know.

All this makes farming harder than any kind of work for wages or salary where the time clock says when to start and the boss has to furnish the initiative.

No line of work requires more varied knowledge and skill than farming. A successful farmer must be a skilled workman and a good business executive. In addition, he must have a working knowledge of many branches of science. He must know soil management, crop and live stock production, insect and disease control, and marketing. A farmer must blend the financial side of farming with field operations.

Contrary to popular opinion that conditions remain pretty much the same on the farm, nowhere are changes more varied and rapid. For example, ten years ago farmers knew nothing about hybrid corn. Only a few scientists were experimenting with it. Now most farmers in the corn belt grow hybrid corn. Many of them raise no other kind.

Some Quitting Hybrids.

But already there is a tendency to swing back toward the established varieties of corn. Farmers are finding that hybrid corn, while producing high yields, does not give quite as good results in the feed lots as open pollinated varieties. Many hybrids are too hard for best utilization by live stock. Some farmers have quit growing hybrids for this reason.

Farm machinery and equipment are changing constantly. Rubber tires for tractors and other farm machinery, electric fences, and small combine harvesters for all types of small grain crops have come into common use within the last six years.

Many farmers in the past made money by buying land at low prices and holding it until prices went up. Land values since the world war have offered less opportunity for speculation than formerly. Success in farming depends more than ever on good management.

STRAYED INTO REAL ESTATE.

Investors' Guide: I have used your service on one previous occasion and am taking the liberty of doing so again. Having heard some time ago about the Polaroid corporation and being a graduate chemical engineer who has strayed into real estate, my curiosity was aroused.

Can you tell me something about this company? What profits have been made since the company started? What are the chief markets for its products? Any information you can supply will be appreciated.—C. J. W.

Answer: Polaroid corporation makes a light controling material used in sun glasses, microscopes, telescopes, optical instruments, reading lamps, color displays, and cameras. One of its chief characteristics is the elimination of light glare. Experimentally it has produced motion pictures in three dimensions. Its basic principal is control of the direction of the vibration of light.

The product itself is a flexible, transparent sheet about three thousandths of an inch thick. It consists of a colloidal suspension of minute needlelike crystals, all parallel. Only those light rays parallel to the crystals are absorbed by the sheet. Two sheets with crystals at right angles to each other would prevent the passage of light rays.

Polaroid corporation, which has headquarters in Boston, is the outgrowth of a business started in 1932 which held certain patents on the polarization of light. Its product has been on the market since 1935. Contracts were signed recently with Eastman Kodak company for the manufacture of photographic light filters, and with American Optical company for its use in sun glasses.

The company's only earnings statement has just been made public. It covered the year ended Dec. 31, 1938, and showed gross revenues of $195,038 and net loss of $72,971. Total assets listed at the end of the year were $469,029. Current assets of $71,036 included cash of $8,328. Current liabilities were $18,937.
